Soviet Agrees to Discuss Veto

NEW YORK, (CP)—Soviet opposition to free discussion of the veto power in the United Nations general assembly was withdrawn suddenly Friday by delegate Andrei Vishinsky in the face of a strong British and United States demand that the subject be thrown open.

Mr. Vishinsky said he was withdrawing Russian opposition in the interest of "unanimity" but warned that to debate such matters in the general assembly at this time was entering upon "dangerous ground."

The decision was made in the steering committee which spent all morning wrangling over the small-power demands that the veto power be curtailed, the British and American demands that it be discussed in the assembly, and the Russian stand against any veto debate in the larger body.

The discussion would lead to "no practical results," Mr. Vishinsky said.

Thursday night, the steering committee held its first session on approving the assembly program, but became involved in a legalistic snarl over a row between India and South Africa and failed to get to the veto dispute.

The India-South Africa fight, which concerns alleged racial discrimination, was settled only after Britain's Sir Hartley Shawcross asserted hotly that "we are in danger of reducing this committee to a laughing stock" by failing to decide a relatively minor question. Committee chairman Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium said he was not quite sure about the meaning of two votes taken on the question, but added that the assembly could figure things out for itself.

Predicts U. N. to Keep Veto Despite Outcry by Delegates

By Peter Inglis

NEW YORK. — Nothing drastic will be done about the Big Five veto power at this session of the United Nations general assembly for all the outcry being raised about it.

Nobody outside the Big Five likes the veto the least bit and that's the Big Five don't like it very much, but there are certain backroom considerations of international politics which make any change in the present set-up now, and probably for a long time to come, impossible.

Most important item, although it is usually skirted in the official speech-making, is the blunt fact that the power to halt by veto any U.N. action which does not appeal to it was Russia's price for entering the world organization in the first place, and is Russia's price for remaining in it today.

Stated simply that—because of their veto power—all five of the big nations would have to agree to a change and Russia patently would not agree.

Not Some Modification

Hence the veto, as such, will remain in the charter of U.N.

However, one aspect of the debate which opened here Thursday in the great assembly chamber may be modification of application or modification of this over-riding power.

Russia—which in spite of appearances really does react to some extent, if belatedly, to the pressure of world public opinion—is going to have the strength of international dislike for its high-handed use of the veto at security council meetings brought home to it at this session of the assembly as never before.

That display of feeling, which has permeated the presentations by the first delegations to have their say on the state of the world, is almost sure to have an effect on the Russians and may influence them into allowing some reinterpretation of the rules covering the use of the veto.

Actually the sometimes virulent denunciations of the veto power are a healthy sign.

In Sounding Board

The general assembly of the United Nations exists as a combined sounding board and safety valve for all the 51 nations, big and little powerful and weak.

It is far better that differences of feeling between countries should be brought out into the open and given a good airing than be left closed up in a closet to fester.

If all the nations of the earth had identically the same opinions, there would be no need for an international regulatory body like U.N.

Veteran observers who have watched the league of nations as well as the United Nations in action consider these open "explosions," the sound of hopeful sign of the younger body. Some of them say openly that if there had been a little less niceness and a little more name calling at Geneva, that city might still be the world capital.

Canada's Stand Unknown

What Canada will have to say about the veto, when Justice Minister St. Laurent makes the dominion's presentation probably early next week, is not yet known.

Canada may say nothing.

The delegation whose location puts it in a position of greater international responsibility than the other small and middle powers has in the past generally taken a sober attitude to world problems.

It is presumed here that the Canadian delegation's position will be that the veto is an unavoidable, if unfortunate, necessity of world politics and that it is more practical to work for a possible revision of the details of its application than for an impossible total elimination.

GETS POST IN CHINA

OTTAWA, (CP) — L. V. Moore Cosgrave, who represented Canada at the signing of Japan's unconditional surrender aboard the U.S.S Missouri in August, 1945, has been appointed Canadian commercial counsellor to China, the trade department announced Friday.

Pair Rob Cripple, Leave Him Helpless

WEST LOS ANGELES, Calif., (AP) — Today's meanest man is twins.

William Brooke, Jr., 25, disabled veteran with his hips in a cast and walking on crutches, was offered a ride by two strangers. Then they drove him to an alley, stripped him of shirt, tie, pen, pencil and wallet containing $15.

Putting him out of the car onto the ground, they tossed his crutches out of reach. Unable to move or rise, Brooke spent several hours in the chill night air before a passerby found him.

Nations Negotiate Over Alaska Road

OTTAWA, (CP)—Federal government officials said Friday that negotiations were under way with the United States in an effort to solve difficulties arising over the trucking of American goods in bond over the Alaska highway and reiterated that there was as yet no treaty covering the matter.

They were commenting on dispatches from Seattle in which United States officials, including Senator Warren G. Magnuson, charged that Canada was discriminating against American citizens and that Canadian refusal to allow shipment of goods in bond by truck was "completely contradictory" to a treaty. Senator Magnuson had urged retaliatory measures.

One external affairs department official here said: "We are holding discussions and negotiations with the United States government on this question."

He added, however, that it would be wrong to speculate that these negotiations might lead to the signing of a treaty.

Customs department officials also denied that any treaty on the trucking of goods existed and said there was no discrimination.

One customs spokesman said there was an arrangement that Canada would not discriminate against United States citizens in customs matters, but pointed out that since Canada did not allow anyone—not even her own citizens—to transport goods in bond by truck it could not be called discrimination if she refused this to Americans.

Order Tokyo Police To Stop "Bullying"

TOKYO, (AP)—The metropolitan police board, target of mounting criticism, Friday ordered Tokyo's 8,000 policemen to quit bullying lawabiding citizens.

In an 88-point memorandum establishing a code of conduct, policemen were instructed "not to engage in loudly scolding citizens in public places or deliver needless caustic lectures on the law . . . When the law has been wrongfully applied, policemen shall not attempt to justify the error by needless arguments."

Decision Reserved In Farmer Appeal

Decision has been reserved by Mr. Justice Hugh John Macdonald on appeals by four St. Paul farmers against convictions on 13 charges arising out of violence during the recent Alberta Farmers' Union doordelivery strike.

Appealing by way of certiorari, Stan Ross and Laval Fortier, defence counsel, and Donald MacKenzie, acting for the crown, presented their arguments in chambers Thursday.

Mr. Ross contended the trial of the farmers, Victor Tessier, Richard Fritze, R. Bartholomew and Adam Rakoon, before Magistrate E. Fitze, St. Paul, was a "kangaroo trial."

He contended the accused were refused proper adjournment to prepare a full defence and that the magistrate took into account facts, allegations and circumstances which had not appeared in evidence.

The accused received 14-day sentences on each of the charges on which they were convicted.

Mr. Justice Macdonald said he would reserve decision and asked that the arguments made by counsel be submitted to him in writing.

Reject Proposal In Bulgaria Vote

LONDON, (CP) — Russia's representative on the Fu'arian control commission has rejected a new United States proposal to govern the Bulgars' Sunday election, a British spokesman said Friday.

The spokesman said Cci-Gen. Sergei Biryuzov asserted the plan interfered with Bulgaria's internal affairs.

British, supported by the United States plan, which called for observers from each party "to appear at all polling places, with the right of appeal to the commission, and for votes to be counted and announced at each poll.

SOFIA, (AP)—All morning newspapers Friday published in full the speeches of diplomatic conference concerning the United States protest that the Bugarian government had failed to assure the freedom of Sunday's national elections.

The publication of the correspondence among the Allied control commission, the Bulgarian government and U. S. government followed persistent efforts here to have the case presented to the Bulgarian public.

2,000,000 GERMANS OUSTED

PRAGUE, (AP)—Interior Minister Nosek told parliament only about 400,000 to 600,000 "reliable" Germans remained in Czechoslovakia, the government having completed the expulsion of more than 2,000,000 unwanted Germans. The ones who remain, he added, eventually would be given Czech citizenship.

Ten Are Killed, 33 Injured In Hindu-Moslem Clashes

CALCUTTA, (CP)—Ten persons were reported killed and 33 injured in this provincial capital up to noon in renewed Hindu-Moslem fighting in Bengal which moved to rush food to the strife-torn Noakhali and Tipperah districts of the province to prevent mass starvation.

In New Delhi, meanwhile, a high source within the Hindu-led All-India Congress party said the Congress and the Moslem league have reached a compromise on the distribution of portfolios in the interim coalition government, an issue which had threatened to bring about the resignation of all congress party ministers.

Most of the new deaths in Calcutta's disorders, continuing to spread on this second day of Hindu observance of Diwali Puja (a religious festival), were reported to have been caused by stabbing affrays. Street car and bus service into the disturbed area was limited. On three occasions police clashed with mobs.

Reuters news agency said shots were fired by police.

Provincial officials prepared to use planes, boats and trains to rush food to Noakhali and Tipperah.

Sir Fredrick Burrows, governor of Bengal, flew to a meeting of the Bengal cabinet at which plans were considered for the relief of thousands of persons driven from their homes by bitter communal disorders.

Report Spain Builds "Wall" Along France

PARIS, (Reuters)—Generalissimo Franco's army has begun the building of new extensive fortifications along the whole length of the Franco-Spanish border, L'Agence France-Presse reported. Alberta Fourth In Bond Drive

Sweeping into fourth place among the provinces, having nosed out Manitoba, Alberta was near the $10,000,000 mark in the Canada Savings Loan drive when returns for the first eight selling days had been compiled Wednesday night.

Figures issued by provincial campaign headquarters showed that sales up to Wednesday night amounted to $9,228,000. For that day alone, the provincial total was $1,060,350.

Nearly 17,500 Albertans have purchased Canada Savings bonds. At country points, the demand is picking up well, rural areas having reported sales of about $3,000,000.

Campaign headquarters reported that the payroll division is continuing to improve its showing. More firms in Edmonton and Calgary have reported that quotas were exceeded.

Calgary Still Leads

Edmonton's total to date is $2,231,850, made up of $1,742,450 in general sales and $489,400 in the payroll division. The city still is far behind Calgary which reported a total up to Wednesday night of $3,238,350, covering $2,686,800 in general sales, with $631,750 in the payroll section.

Lethbridge reported general sales amounting to about $1,000,000 and sales of $21,000. Medicine Hat has general sales for $227,200 and payroll sales of $48,000.

Fourteen mines in the Drumheller Valley agreed to put the payroll savings plan into operation and canvassing will get under way immediately. All union secretaries were strongly in favor of a continuation of the payroll savings plan in purchasing Canada savings bonds, according to a report received at provincial campaign offices.

At the halfway mark in the sales across Canada, the total is $139,497,750, according to an announcement made by Bank of Canada officials. The general sales total is $109,166,450, as distinct from bonds purchased through the payroll savings plan, which so far amount to $30,331,300.

In Manitoba, a farmer bought a $100 bond for each of 14 grandchildren.

Chinese Red Army Said in Retreat

PEIPING, (AP) — Collapse of Chinese Communist resistance along the Peiping-Hankow railway has brought Chinese government military sources, who said the main Red force was in retreat in the hills.

As the Communist offensive, aimed at the government lifeline to the embattled Manchurian capital, entered its 9th week, the armed forces of Chiang Kai-shek redoubled their efforts on a new seaboard front to the east.

Government dispatches said Chinese warships standing out in the Gulf of Chihli bombarded the Communist port of Chinwangtao and, straight on day, braving the fire of Communist shore batteries, landed troops at Shanhaikwan, Dairen and Port Arthur, has been a jumping-off point for Communist troops sent through Jehol province to the Manchuria border.

There was no further word from the land fighting around Chefoo, where Chinese fought Chinese in the suburbs, but it seemed the government was bent on severing the link between Communists in Manchuria and their redoubt in mountainous Shantung province.

By government accounts, the fighting inland along the Peiping-Hankow railway had reached the mop-up stage.

The 94th Army was assaulting Hsushui, last town still in Communist hands on the north section of the line, about 75 miles north of Paoting. Hopeh province capital 90 miles southwest of Peiping.

150 Jews Are Detained After 12 Persons Hurt

JERUSALEM, (CP)—Police detained nearly 150 Jerusalem Jews Friday after a night of bomb and mine blasts which came less than three days after a warning by the Stern gang of intensified mine war against British forces.

Twelve persons—11 soldiers and a civilian—were wounded in four bomb and grenade explosions in Jerusalem. The condition of three was listed as "dangerous."

The Jews were detained after an all-night police screening of Jewish residents at the scenes of the bombings. The army said no arrests had been made by dawn.

The city was tense. Soldiers on patrol seemed grim.

The explosion of three bombs and a hand grenade in the Jewish quarter here followed the 6:30 p.m. deadline of a nightly, dawn-to-dusk curfew imposed in the quarter a week ago by the British because of a "serious recrudescence of Jewish terrorism in the Jerusalem area."

The soldiers who were wounded were enforcing the curfew. Soon after, heavy firing continued for half an hour near the Sarona police station east of Tel Aviv.

Part of a highway bridge was destroyed by a bomb explosion near Hadera on the north coastal plain. A military truck was demolished by a road mine a few miles away. The driver was taken to hospital bleeding and unconscious.

Alarm sirens sounded in Jerusalem, Jaffa and Tel Aviv after the incidents occurred, and all Jerusalem was under curfew for 40 minutes.

In propaganda leaflets, the Stern gang, outlawed Jewish underground group, warned earlier in the week that British soldiers carrying fire arms would be shot and that more and more mines would be put in the path of army vehicles.

LONDON, (CP)— Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech Jones told the commons Friday that British would publicize in the United States details of new Palestinian outbreaks.

"I should like to express the abhorrence which I am confident the house feels at these abominations and cold-blooded outrages and our keen realization of the trials and dangers which beset troops, police, administration and indeed all concerned with the maintenance of law and order in Palestine," Mr. Creech Jones declared.

Tom Driberg, Labor, asked the colonial secretary whether the foreign office "will see the facts of this situation are made widely known in New York, where there is intensive propaganda not only on behalf of the Zionist cause but actually on behalf of the terrorists."

"We are alive to that," Mr. Creech Jones replied, "and that will be done."

Later he said:

"These outrages, which bring sorrow and anxiety to so many homes, come at a time when every effort is being made to bring about a relief of tension in Palestine and to discover a solution of the long-term problem of the future of the Holy Land.

"Their effort can only be to postpone the day when a just and lasting settlement can be reached."

Churchill Claims Facts Show Huge Red Army in Europe

LONDON, (CP) — Winston Churchill said Thursday that he had "facts" and evidence to support his suggestion that the Soviet Union had 200 divisions—more than 2,000,000 men—on a war footing in Soviet-occupied Europe.

Addressing his constituents in suburban Loughton, Mr. Churchill described his speech in the commons Wednesday as a serious warning," and added dramatically:

"I did not ask the question frivolously. I have spent hours and hours weighing very carefully the whole matter and without consulting others, my friends and colleagues, and laying before them the evidence on which I proceeded.

"Nor did I ask the question without informing the government beforehand of my intentions, but you can take it from me that the facts I adduced are correct."

Lauds "Red" Stand

Mr. Churchill praised Foreign Secretary Bevin as "a sort of working class John Bull who has maintained continuity of policy in foreign affairs to a considerable extent," and he lauded Prime Minister Attlee's speech at Brighton, Sussex, Thursday.

"The fact that the British government have decisively broken with the Communists and are fronted against them, although it does not immediately affect the course of affairs in this island," he said, "has an important and beneficial result abroad, because there are many parties on the continent—like France—quivering under the Communist attack."

Mr. Attlee's Brighton speech before the annual Trades Union Congress included a charge that Soviet leaders were "out straight for world ignorance and suspicion" between Russia and the rest of the world.

This apparently was a reference to the barrage of "war monger" epithets thrown at him in the Moscow press and radio after virtually all his recent speeches.

Earlier Thursday, a government spokesman in the commons replied in answering a direct demand that the government repudiate Mr. Churchill's speech.

Summon Squatters In Montreal Home

MONTREAL, (CP) — Montreal's first squatters run into legal entanglements Thursday when summonses were issued for their court appearance on charges of forcible entry.

The summonses were issued against three named men and two others yet to be identified. The action, 24 hours after five war veterans' families took possession of a 14-room vacant house, was taken by E. J. Courtois, counsel for the building owner.

Those named in the summonses are: Henri Gagnon and David Durocher, formerly of the Royal 22nd regiment, and Napolean Auger, formerly of the Royal Canadian engineers.

U. K. Armed Forces Reduction Slowed

LONDON, (CP)— Prime Minister Attlee said Thursday Britain would not be able to reduce the size of her armed forces to 1,100,000 by the end of this year as planned.

He said in the commons that the figure had been "based on the expectations that a number of abnormal commitments arising from the war would be liquidated" by Dec. 31, adding:

"While certain of these commitments will be reduced, it is already evident that the liquidation of others by the end of the year will be impracticable. . . It is not yet possible to state precisely the extent to which the strength of the armed forces will exceed this figure at the end of the year."

23 Nazi Doctors Accused of Murder

NUERNBERG. (AP) — Twenty-three Nazi doctors were indicted Friday on charges that they committed murder in the name of human beings" in Germany's wartime program of medical killings and brutal experiments with living prisoners.

A woman, Herta Oberhauser, and Dr. Karl Brandt, one of Hitler's personal physicians, were among the 23, who will be tried next month by a court of a series of war crimes trials by special American military courts.

Brig.-Gen. Telford Taylor, chief counsel for the courts, said between 250 and 500 former Nazi military, industrial, financial and governmental leaders would be arraigned during the trials, expected to last through 1947.

Gen. Taylor said the defendants would include top officials of I. G. Farben, giant chemical and industrial combine, and "someone" from the Krupp munitions works.

Friedrich (Fritz) Thyssen, prewar head of big armaments and steel works, was "under study like anyone else." Other official sources indicated Thyssen would not be called, saying he was not in Germany at the end of the war.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

Modern Magic Is Centuries Old

From marine life which was alive millions of years ago comes a material called diatomaceous silica. Possibly you've never heard of it, but, it plays an important part in the dry cleaning of your clothes. You see, this is the raw material from which Johns-Manville Celite is produced—and, a form of Celite called Hyflo is widely used in the dry cleaning industry to remove dirt and other impurities from the cleaning fluids.

Hyflo, plus the modern equipment used in the dry cleaning industry today, enables dry cleaners to turn out high quality work in the shortest possible time, at the lowest possible cost.

For details on Hyflo and Celite write Canadian Johns-Manville, 199 Bay Street, Toronto.

Privy Council Held All-Empire Body

LONDON, (CP)—A privy council hearing on whether Canada should sever her last judicial link with Britain by abolishing the right of appeal to the privy council in Canadian law cases resumed Friday before Lord Chancellor Jowitt and six other law lords of the council with C. R. Magone of Toronto arguing for the attorney-general of Ontario that the privy council "is not an English body in any exclusive sense."

Pursuing Ontario's argument against the validity of Canada's "Bill 9" which would abolish the right of appeal to the privy council, Mr. Magone quoted the words of Lord Haldane in 1926 that the privy council is "no more an English body than it is an Indian body or a Canadian body or a South African body.

Mr. Magone said Lord Haldane had emphasized the many councillors might be judges from Canada, India, Australia or South Africa.

In the hearing, Canada, Manitoba and Saskatchewan will be heard in support of Bill 9. Opposing it are Ontario, Quebec, British Columbia and New Brunswick.

Viscount Simon, a law lord, interjected there was one aspect of the privy council which might be regarded as "having a connection with the crown in the right of Britain as distinct from Canada in the right of Canada."

That aspect, said Lord Simon, "is that members of the privy council qualified to sit on the judicial committee are appointed on the advice of the British Prime Minister."

Edens in Toronto; Not Ones Expected

TORONTO, (CP)—It all boiled down to an erroneous announcement by a press relations man, this business about Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden and his wife being en route to Toronto via New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Eden came to Toronto Friday from Britain, but were not the former British foreign secretary and his wife. They were Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Howard Eden.

American Airlines announced the wartime foreign secretary and his wife were coming to Toronto.

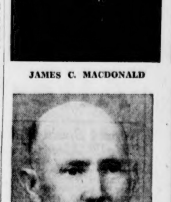
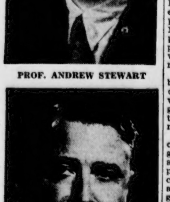
Four Candidates Named for School Board

JAMES C. MACDONALD

PROF. ANDREW STEWART



ROBERT H. RAE



CARL W. CLEMENT

Four prominent Edmontonians Friday were named as school board candidates of the Citizens' Committee in the Nov. 6 civic election. Only one of these will be seeking re-election. The newcomers to the political battle are Prof. Stewart, president of the Edmonton Home Builders' association and a resident of the Highlands; Mr. Clement, city barrister; and Prof. Stewart, of the University of Alberta. Mr. Macdonald, executive member of the Canadian Legion, Edmonton branch, was elected for a one-year term in 1945. Dr. G. A. Gemeroy and George M. Cormie, Citizens' Committee school board trustee who were in office during the past year declined nominations this year. Dr. Gemeroy has been in ill health and Mr. Cormie declined for business reasons.

Says Reds Retard Labor Movement

One of the drawbacks to the Labor movement in Canada is the propaganda of Communists designed to prevent the trades unions from becoming politically-minded, Sam Watson, prominent British trades unionist and secretary of the Durham Miners' Federation, said when interviewed Friday at the Macdonald.

Mr. Watson has been a member of the national executive of the British Labor party for 10 years. He has just attended the American Federation of Labor convention in Chicago as a fraternal delegate from the British Trades Union Congress.

On his present tour, Mr. Watson is travelling under the auspices of the C.C.F. He was accompanied by A. M. Nicholson, M.P. for McKenzie, Sask. They were met by Elmer E. Roper, M.L.A., provincial leader of the C.C.F.

To Speak Here

On Friday, Mr. Watson was scheduled to address the Edson constituency C.C.F. convention at Mercoal, on the Coal Branch. He will speak at a meeting in the Talmud Torah hall in Edmonton Saturday night. He will address meetings in Calgary Nov. 4 and Medicine Hat Nov. 5.

"The British Labor party and the trades union movement are anti-Communist," said Mr. Watson during the interview. The British evade serious concern.

people were not anti-Russian, he emphasized.

In the Old Country the government's policy of industrial reorganization was being brought into operation. One method was public ownership. There also was the "working party" method, operated by a board of 13 members, composed of representatives of employers, the trades union movement and government under the leadership of Sir Stafford Cripps. This body was to investigate conditions in the cotton, pottery and textile industries. If plants were found to need financial assistance, this could be provided by the government, while a plant operated inefficiently could be brought under government control.

Peaceful Reconversion

In the steel industry, an 11-member board had been setup to make investigations. It was not the intention to nationalize the industry forthwith but to bring about public ownership through the process of selection.

"The British coal situation is pretty serious, owing to the shortage of manpower and need for improved equipment," said Mr. Watson.

It was probable that the government would take over the coal industry on Jan. 1, next, he said. Their production lines can soon give mine owners compensation of $650,000,000 in government bonds.

Continued high prices for staple foodstuffs and prime necessities are causing the government of Ver-

Any Tax Benefits Aid All Provinces

By John Bird

OTTAWA. — Something like the well-known American "most favored nation" clause in trade treaties is likely to emerge from Manitoba's tax discussions with the dominion, and indications are that the benefits thereof will apply to other provinces that may come under tax agreements.

Here is the situation, as defined Friday. There are some indications the dominion may be willing to make minor concessions in the lesser tax fields such as gasoline, electricity, amusements, etc. It appears likely for example, Premier Macdonald of Nova Scotia will press for new terms for exclusive provincial possession of these fields when he comes to Ottawa for renewed tax discussion.

The Manitoba delegation, headed by Premier Garson, while not now obtaining minor tax fields, wants to be sure the province will get the benefit of any concessions the dominion may subsequently make to other provinces.

Hence a "most favored nation" clause is likely to be worked out guaranteeing Manitoba treatment as favorable as any granted to other provinces. But this "most favored" clause would not apply to Manitoba alone: it would become part of the general pattern of agreements applying to other provinces — provided they came in under the full terms of the dominion's present piecemeal offer.

WINNIPEG, (CP)— Works minister Ernest Willis of Manitoba said Friday on his return from Ottawa that "the dominion-Manitoba (tax transfer) agreement is complete." He added the New Brunswick and Saskatchewan governments have yet to agree to the terms of the federal government's final draft.

Miniature Cars Sweeping Europe

By Basil Dean

LONDON—An epidemic of miniature cars with one-cylinder "putt-putt" engines, minute gas consumption and low initial cost is sweeping the continent, and is causing an outcry for production of similar models in car-hungry Britain.

These autos are far smaller than even the tiniest British "baby" car which is now fairly familiar in Canada. Two medium-sized people can just squeeze into them, their speed is limited to 35 m.p.h., they can go 100 miles on a gallon of gas, and even in France, where production costs are sky-high, they are being turned out for $500 or so.

In Germany, factories in the British zone are turning out the rear-engined Volkswagen, a tiny four-seat automobile which Hitler was always promising to produce for Germany's workers. (The Nazis collected millions of dollars in down-payments from the customers but never got around to turning out a single one of these buzz-boxes for civilian use).

Volkswagens Popular

Volkswagens today are to be seen all over Germany in the hands of the British occupation forces, but none has been exported to Britain. The scarcity and price ($1,200 and up) of Britain's famed small cars have put them beyond the reach of ordinary wage-earners; and thousands of Britons would like to own a Volkswagen which, it is said, could be produced here for $400 or a little over.

British car manufacturers, up to the eyes in raw material shortages, labor problems, sky-rocketing costs and, in any event, already committed to more models than their production lines can economically handle, have poured cold water on the idea of making a British "people's car" on the model of the Volkswagen.

They have been loud in their denunciations of its disadvantages. The rear engine, they say, makes a broken leg inevitable if the driver gets into a head-on crash. The car is so light that it skids easily on wet roads and is furthermore noisy and uncomfortable.

Prefer Tiny One to None

However, many Britons would prefer even a Volkswagen to no car at all. And now that they have seen pictures of the new French "mechanical mice," which are even tinier, they want to know why British factories shouldn't make these, too. Britons see them as an ideal short-distance runabout for shopping or going to the theatre.

Motors in these midgets run from two to four horsepower (compared with a Canadian car's motor of 30 to 40 h.p. calculated on a European basis). But it appears that few of these autos will be seen in Britain for quite awhile; France's domestic demand is likely to use up total factory output for some time to come.

Durban Calls Halt To "Monkeyshines"

DURBAN, South Africa—Durban city council has set aside £1,000 ($4,000) to trap all monkeys which are a danger or a nuisance to citizens.

In recent years Durban's monkey population has become so numerous and so bold that housewives in some suburbs complain it is not safe to leave anything out of doors.

Bands of monkeys raid gardens and verandahs, making off with anything they can carry, especially fruit or vegetables. There have also been cases when monkeys have come through an open door or window and raided the pantry.

Efforts by ratepayers to trap them in the past have failed for the animals are too clever, and it now has been decided to pay an expert animal trapper to do the job. The mayor, Senator S. J. Smith, said the monkeys could not be shot as the public would never allow this.

Sir Stafford Cripps, who opened the United Nations' conference on international trade and employment in Church House, Westminster, London, is shown as he made the opening speech. Cripps is president of the board of trade.

France Launches Atomic Research

WASHINGTON, (NANA)—France has embarked on a full-scale, independent atomic research program with an initial endowment of $4,000,000.

Her attitude toward secrecy "will be conditioned by her own views as well as by her past, present and future international obligations."

This is revealed through the Federation of Atomic Scientists issued by Dr. Lew Kowarski, one of the French pioneers in atomic fission research. He worked on both the British and Canadian bomb projects, and now is scientific director of the French Atomic energy authority.

Plants Set Up

Testing laboratories and workshops already have been set up in a disused fort close to Paris, Kowarski says. The next step, now in its preparatory stages, will be the establishment—on a site of several hundred acres just south of Paris—of a new research center with at least one experimental uranium pile, a radiochemical plant, and other new equipment.

The science of nuclear physics was French in origin, starting with the discovery of the radio-activity of uranium by the physicist, Becquerel, late in the last century and continuing through the isolation of radium by the Curies.

Started Before War

Just before the first nuclear fission was accomplished in Washington in January 1939, experiments leading in the same direction had been made by Prof. Frederic Joliot of the college de France, son-in-law of Mme. Maria Curie. In the summer of 1939, just before the war, Joliot told an international scientific conference at Liege that he had succeeded in producing a chain reaction with uranium such as later became the basis of the atomic bomb.

His experiments were cut short by the war and the capture of Paris. He co-operated wholeheartedly with the Allies. There has, however, been some feeling among French scientists that France's basic contributions should entitle her to a full partnership with Great Britain, Canada and the United States in the atomic bomb.

Joliot now is high commissioner of the French atomic energy authority.

Communists inspired 300 farmers to seize many farms, after shooting cattle on them, near Tlaxcala, Mexico, recently, but federal troops disarmed and routed the invaders.

Foreign Policies Under Fire Of British Trades Unions

By Frank Swanson

BRIGHTON, Sussex.—Outspoken opposition to important elements of Britain's foreign policy which is shared by many Labor backbenchers in parliament was voiced here Friday by representatives of a large share of the nation's 8,000,000 trades unionists at concluding sessions of their annual general conference.

Although on a formal vote, condemnation of Foreign Secretary Bevin's policies was defeated by narrow majority with delegates of many unions abstaining, extent of the vote in favor of censure of the government indicates the Labor party can be under few illusions as to the true feeling of the party's rank and file.

The issue rose in the Trades Union congress over a motion by the powerful electrical trades union which asked the congress to oppose government's policy in three spheres —Spain, Germany and in relations between Britain and the Soviet Union.

Rap Policy on Spain

Speaker after speaker condemned —often in highly colored language —Britain's failure to sever relations with Franco Spain and in the end forced the congress to adopt by an overwhelming majority a substitute resolution condemning the Franco regime and demanding the Labor government end diplomatic relations with Spain. The resolution was passed in spite of evident manoeuvres on the part of the general council of the congress to avoid passage of the resolution which they calculated would prove embarrassing to the British foreign office.

So obvious was the feeling of congress that it will be difficult for the Labor government—in reality the political organ of the trades union body—to avoid coming to grips with the subject in parliament.

The foreign policy debate emerged as the only positive point on which trades unionists and the Labor party disagree and the attitude of the congress will be almost sure to affect future foreign policy discussions of the government.

Hit Atlee Attitude

During Friday's debate frequent references were made to Prime Minister Attlee's remarks Thursday with respect to Russia and it was obvious the majority of speakers were not happy about their political chief's attitude toward the Soviet or Communism.

The resolution rapping British foreign policy was defeated after Prime Minister Attlee protested the measure was filled with Communistic "misrepresentation," the Canadian Press reported.

The defeated resolution rapped British policy toward Greece, Spain and Germany and declared:

"The relationship between the Soviet and this country has deteriorated during the past 12 months due to the policy of Anglo-American domination; and the isolation of the Soviet Union, along with the tying of the economy of Britain with that of capitalist America, is in our view extremely dangerous . . ."

G. B. Hunter of the distributive workers' union, arguing for the resolution, declared: "If we throw in our lot with America, we are heading for inevitable war and the British Isles will be destroyed."

Fire Destroys Big N.B. Potato Plant

HARTLAND, N.B., (CP) — New Brunswick's extensive potato belt suffered a serious blow late Thursday when fire destroyed the dehydration plant and starch factory of New Brunswick Potato Products, Ltd. Loss was estimated between $250,000 and $300,000 and 40 men were thrown out of work.

The largest potato house in the province escaped the flames but 10,000 barrels of cull potatoes were lost as they were awaiting manufacture into starch. The dehydration plant was the last in the province.

Scientist Heads Defence Research

OTTAWA, (CP)— Dr. O. M. Solandt, 37-year-old Toronto scientist, has been appointed chairman of the recently-formed Canadian Defence Research board, which will control the development of weapons and equipment for the three armed services it was learned Thursday.

Other members of the board include Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, chief of the army staff, Air Marshal Robert Leckie, chief of the air staff, Vice-Admiral H. E. Reid, chief of the naval staff, and Dean C. J. McKenzie, president of the National Research Council.

The board is an independent government body similar to the research council and the atomic energy control board.

ROB TREATY MONEY

PARRY SOUND, Ont., (CP)— Two masked and armed robbers Thursday threw a tree across the road to stop his automobile and robbed Samuel Devlin, Indian agent for the Parry Sound-Muskoka districts, of $1,200 in treaty money.

Taking a Long View

Edmonton's city council is looking ahead, a good way ahead, in plotting what it hopes will become a permanent plan of street improvement in keeping with the city's growth.

Even residents who know how fast the great open spaces are filling up will readily recognize this peering into the future as they note the list of streets which council has marked down on the plan as "major" thoroughfares.

Thus 137th Avenue, named as a major artery, is about three and one-half miles north of Jasper Avenue, which it parallels — on the map. And even beyond the city boundaries road diversions are to be sought which would make country highways connect with streets-to-be. Whatever else may be found with the plan, it is obviously not drawn with a constricted conception of how large Edmonton is going to be.

This course is a long-range projection. It is not intended as a construction schedule for next year — nor for any undertaking in the near future. The idea is that this should be a general plan, indicating some developments not likely to be made for many years, but toward which the systematic improvement of streets should be carried on as conditions warrant and circumstances require.

Provided some future council does not try to rush matters beyond reason, this forward looking program will be all to the good. Edmonton has had plenty of experience to show the unwisdom of planless expansion. The street "jogs" which successive councils for a quarter of a century have been straightening out could have been avoided if the original surveys had been made with some consistent regard for uniformity.

For similar reasons it is wise to chart ahead now streets which may be expected in course of time to become "major" traffic arteries. It will be up to the taxpayers to see that a run-away council does not some time put on a splurge of premature construction. That is something which cannot by present action be made impossible.

The voters will have to regulate the speed of development as occasion requires. What is being done now, and is highly desirable, is to map out the lines of ultimate development, and to take what steps may be necessary to facilitate improvements as this becomes important.

Careless Driving

There is no information immediately available to show whether or not other parts of the continent are suffering from an epidemic of rash and wild motor car driving. But that epidemic certainly exists in Edmonton. Probably never in the history of the automobile have motorists shown such carelessness and discourtesy as some of them display on the streets of this city.

Edmonton people are more rude and speed-ridden than the people of any other community. Indeed, visitors frequently comment upon the extraordinary courtesy and consideration they ordinarily receive here. There must be some special factor then that has entered the blood of some post-war drivers and impels them to recklessness.

Traffic accidents in Edmonton, considered on the basis of population and the number of vehicles in operation, are now far above normal in number. The near-accidents, in which the pedestrian escapes injury only by the grace of God and spectacular agility, are incalculable.

Cars and trucks whizz by pedestrians waiting for street cars at quite unnecessary speed. They cut corners at intersections shamelessly. Their disregard for the rights and safety of those afoot, in too many instances, is disgraceful.

It should be noted that the behavior of the worst offenders is quite exemplary when there is a police constable standing by. It is not too much to ask, then, that more police constables should be scattered around unobtrusively at bad corners during the rush hours, and that these be instructed to lay complaints freely.

Only a drastic police drive for safe driving can really make Edmonton streets safe.

The Annuities Paradox

The Canadian government has been urging upon the people of this country the purchase of government annuities. This pressure, exerted by radio programs and advertisements, is perfectly justified because Canadian government annuities, paying four percent interest, are just about the safest and soundest investment a man can make.

It is a purchase which encourages intelligent saving and thrift.

But if the government is exerting force with its right hand to encourage the purchase of annuities, it is exerting equal force with its left hand to discourage the sale of them.

By far the greatest number of annuities is sold by agents who collect a commission on every annuity they sell. This is a sound and proper way of doing the business. But if the government wants to sell more annuities, it should put no obstacles in the way of its salesmen.

Yet this is just what it does. For agents' earnings are limited to a sum equal to their takings in pre-war days. In other words, the government is trying to increase its volume of annuities sales by pouring them through a funnel with a depression-sized neck.

It is a ridiculous paradox. What difference does it make how much the agents earn if a benefit is being conferred upon the Canadian people?

Standing Pat

President Truman's address of welcome to the United Nations Assembly delegates included a restatement of the principles and policies set out by Secretary Byrnes in his speech at Stuttgart some weeks ago. It thus clears away any lingering suspicion or hopes — that the Government at Washington is divided on the subject. The Wallace defection rates as a one-man filibuster.

The Big Four foreign ministers, meeting concurrently with the Assembly, are to undertake the job of writing in final form the treaties which were drafted at Paris respecting Finland, Italy, Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania. They should, Mr. Byrnes has said, write into the treaties the recommendations which were made at Paris.

Here is an instance of the "firmness" toward Russia which both the President and the Secretary have declared, for one of Russia's affiliates has said it will refuse to sign the treaty with Italy if it is drawn along these lines. But the Paris draft, it is directly implied both by Mr. Truman and Mr. Byrnes, is to go into the treaty, whatever the Russian "bloc" thinks or does about it.

The course of events in general since Stuttgart has not eased the tension between Moscow and Washington. With the notable, and seemingly significant statement given out by Premier Stalin. The implications of this statement were sharply at variance with the former intractable attitude of Mr. Molotov at Paris. Perhaps the Premier has instructed his foreign commissar to strike a less domineering note at the ministerial conference now in the Assembly?

In any case, President Truman has made plain there will be no "appeasement" of Russia that involves a backing down from the position taken by Mr. Byrnes in his key-note speech at Stuttgart.

Even more important than doing as Rome does is not doing as Rome doesn't.

Washington agriculturists are seeking to develop a more "durable" egg. What, if anything, has this to do with the Congressional election campaign?

The gain of one seat in Parliament can hardly be called, as Calgary West's Mr. A.L. Smith calls it, a "definite swing" toward the Progressive Conservative party.

But then there was no Department of Veterans' Affairs in the days when Shakespeare wrote, "Had I but served my God with half the zeal I served my king, He would not in mine age have left me naked to mine enemies."

Liberal Eyes Left

By ELMORE PHILLPOTT

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

Students of political history are aware that the dual nature of the Canadian nation reflects itself in dual party leadership. Laurier was the only one of the great prime ministers to rule without a recognized partner from the other race. Sir John A. Macdonald had Cartier for about the same length of time as Mackenzie King had Ernest Lapointe.

Thus a Drew-Duplessis alliance would be not only a thing of obvious victory-making possibilities—but one for which there are convincing precedents.

The province of Quebec is as much a natural Conservative in all its thinking processes and actions as is Mr. Drew. If one studies the international currents that carried apart the Quebec and Ontario-type Conservatives one even more clearly sees the future possibilities.

* * *

Conservative Quebec sentiment was opposed to total participation in the first war. One reason for its opposition was that its leaders —being largely of one might call of the Marshall Petain outlook on life—foresaw something of what has actually happened.

Just as the remnants of the royalists of old France were foolish enough in 1929 to say "Better the Hitler than Blum," so Quebec Conservatives were against total war on the ground "better Hitler than Stalin." They didn't always say it —but they generally felt something pretty close to it.

Now history has taken a great jump ahead. There is nothing in the international prospect to make impossible an alliance between the Ontario Imperialist, George Drew, and the Quebec nationalist-realist, Maurice Duplessis. All forces are pushing things the other way.

Thus there are keen political analysts here in Ottawa who will tell you to bet on a Drew-Duplessis bid for federal power at the next election.

* * *

The shrewdest Liberals are so sure of it that they have already begun to chart a course which they at least, hope will make possible a realignment of the left-wing parties.

Fantastic as it may appear to most CCF supporters at first glance, such Liberals believe that an alliance with the CCF—or even an amalgamation with the CCF—is not impossible before 1950 or 1955. They point to the fact that third parties in Canada have always followed the same course: They have arisen in the west, always written radical programs, sometimes won power in a province or two—but always broken on the rock of Quebec and then washed back into the Liberal fold as being the lesser of the two old (evil) parties.

I note the stress because it seems to me an analysis which accurately fits the facts of politics in Canada from 1896—but which fits the thinking of an important section of the Liberal leadership.

They know that the CCF leaders and CCF rank-and-file would not listen to any such proposal, as a practical proposition. Rowell-Sirois foolishly or not—some of them are betting that the stern logic of future events will compel all left-wing parties to get together in the face of the two-edged Drew-Duplessis threat from the extreme right.

A Trust Betrayed

BY BRUCE HUTCHISON

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

Mr. Elliott Roosevelt adopts an extraordinary method of honoring his distinguished father. He breaks all the late President's most sacred confidences. He destroys many men who trusted Roosevelt. He injects his little dose of poison into the international uncertainty which Roosevelt died attempting to save.

When Franklin Roosevelt went to conferences with his Allies in a battleship off Newfoundland, in Casablanca, Cairo and Teheran, he took with him plans for winning the war and establishing the peace. Unwittingly, because he trusted his family, he took some excess baggage in the form of young Elliott. He should have spoke his mind in secret, when other men spoke just as freely because they trusted Roosevelt, Elliott was listening quietly in the background.

In his book, "As He Saw It," this amiable reporter at the key-hole of history contributes some exhibits for the record. Whether they are true or not—and it is too early to say until the other exhibits are eventually filed—their presentation in this form is an outrage not only against Franklin Roosevelt's friends but against him also.

* * *

When Roosevelt, or any other man, however humble, invites others to speak freely and in confidence, he is bound to respect that confidence. Roosevelt in life always respected it, often at serious personal and political embarrassment. When he allowed Elliott to hear these confidences he placed those other men at his son's mercy and those other men trusted Elliott or they would not have spoken before him. They trusted him because he was his father's son, and, of course, for no other reason.

Now such things as Mr. Churchill said under the seal of confidence are printed by Elliott for the purpose of discrediting him; and Mr. Churchill and others, restrained by an ordinary sense of honor cannot print many things which Elliott did not hear and which could throw a new light on everything. We get a one-sided story through the key-hole.

* * *

Elliott's book is heavily slanted against Britain—always the villain of every piece—and in favor of Russia but this is not the point. The point is that both Roosevelt and the men who put themselves in his hands accepted a mutual obligation and it was broken by the President's son. However valuable Elliott's revelations may prove as history, international negotiations or, indeed the ordinary relations of individual men, cannot be successfully conducted without that trust and the frankness only possible where there is trust. Of all men in the world Franklin Roosevelt was perhaps the most trusted by the statemen of all nations. They made the mistake of supposing that Elliott was the true son of his father.

THE FARMERS' VIEWPOINT

Clinton News Record

Canada now has agricultural implements of dollars that went to urban Canadians during the war period. Farmers expect a small part of this debt necessary to sustain agriculture temporarily at low levels compared with urban earnings, to be paid. Whether the wartime agriculture policy was the best or not, will be decided by history. It was, perhaps, the best that could be done. It was part of a war policy that brought the end of armed conflict and gave farmers and all others a chance for peace. There can be no doubt about whether the wartime bargain with farmers will be kept. Farmers will not be asking any privilege in whatever is done to sustain agriculture.

PRIORITIES IN JUNKETS

Halifax Herald

With liner space "strictly rationed"—with everything on a priority basis—it astounds the ordinary persons of a scandal when dancers and fashion-models can get "top booking" while the wives of decompassionate cases get the official "brush off." There are in this country many people who should long since have been granted priorities for a visit to the United Kingdom—citizens of Canada who lost relatives in the early days of the war or whose kin in the Old Land suffered grievously as a result of the bombings. But, no. There are no priorities in these distressing cases, these compassionate cases. The priorities go to "big-wigs" and "big-shots" and dancers and models who pose as "ambassadors of fashion" and "goodwill." Take a look at the passenger list of any Atlantic liner using this port today . . . and ask yourself what amount of "essentiality" is represented there. Every second individual case is some sort of junket.

The Bulletin's Readers Say:

THE BILL OF RIGHTS

Editor, The Bulletin: As Mr. Milner has written again regarding purchasing power, I should like to answer him. He also criticizes the Alberta Bill of Rights and as the two subjects are closely related I give a brief reply.

I must challenge Mr. Milner's statement in which he implies that there was a full opportunity to question Prof. Elliott at the enquiry held under the UFA government, I would have liked such an opportunity but it was not made available.

The statement that many Albertans have lost their all because the promises of Social Credit were not allowed to be tried, must be blamed on the existing system and not on the Social Credit government, and the faith of the people is still strong for Social Credit, as Mr. Milner states.

Financial credit or money is the medium through which we exchange goods and services. Amount of money must vary with amount of goods if the price level is to be maintained. That is, a certain quantity of money is necessary and without saying the exact amount common sense and figures will tell us that, if the amount of money in circulation falls below the required amount, goods will sell only at very low prices, or not at all. If we have plenty of goods as in 1932, people would be prosperous if they were able to buy them, but owing to insufficient money they could not do so.

Here then, is the problem. The natural resources are abundant, the people's requirements are numerous, and the returned men want jobs without displacing those who are now working. The Alberta Bill of Rights proposes to see that SUFFICIENT financial credit is issued to the consumers so that they can buy the fruits of production. This production will be processed out of the natural resources of Alberta, which would remain undeveloped unless the provincial government exercises the governmental function it is trying to get permission to use, i.e., give the people the right of access to the use of their own credit.

Seven hundred years ago the rights of the people had to be reaffirmed to protect them against the encroachments of kingly power. The Bill of Rights as passed by the provincial government would restore to the people certain rights which have been usurped by financial power. This act does not interfere with the present money system at all. With the co-operation of the banks it can be made to work in the interests of the people

The Road Ahead

By Harper Prowse, M.L.A.

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

It is probably impossible for persons who have not been in the service to imagine how completely a citizen is stripped of all his democratic rights once he exchanges his civvy suit for a uniform. Based on the belief that a commander, having assumed responsibility for carrying out demands made on him, must be given unlimited authority and freedom of action in order to achieve his object, the state gives him complete dictatorial power over the men under his command. To question, to refuse to obey, to criticize, and even to praise a superior are all forbidden under military law. It was the knowledge of this fact that caused General Eisenhower to wonder whether the court at Nuremberg should have sentenced Keitel to death. As a soldier Eisenhower knew, what civilians cannot realize, that a soldier has no choice but to obey his commands. To refuse to carry them out, even on the highest grounds of morals, ethics or principles, is to be guilty of treachery and betrayal of one's country.

* * *

The sentence of the Nuerenberg courts, and other courts, on German senior officers must have caused many an Allied senior—and junior—officer serious misgivings. No longer is it a question of "theirs not to reason why—theirs but to do, or die." The principle has now been written into international law that a soldier is responsible for his actions, regardless of whether they were his own idea or whether he was carrying out orders. If, then, a man is to be expected to bear personal responsibility for his actions, in carrying out orders, we must revise our thinking on this subject in order to give him a legal right to refuse to carry out orders which he may consider criminal or unsound.

It is going to be difficult for senior military officers to revise their thinking on this subject. But perhaps the shadow of Keitel's corpse will be a sobering influence on their thinking. They have been trained to accept the complete and unquestioning obedience of their subordinates, just as they must accept the dictates of their superiors. This has been, I believe, one of the chief weaknesses of our military system.

* * *

Because arguing, or the expression of an opinion contrary to that formally held by the authorities, was discouraged, the services were slow to drop ideas and equipment which was outmoded, to seek and adopt new ideas. Men who dared to criticize were punished and more than one officer has lost his command because he dared to disagree with a senior. This system encouraged and bred inefficiency.

It is true a subordinate who felt he was wronged could seek redress—but only if his superior were willing to pass him along to his next superior. Had it not been for the blanket of censorship imposed by this air-tight system which often acted only to protect seniors from unpleasant facts, the disgraceful incidents of Aldershot and the Air Force sit-down strikes, might have been avoided.

* * *

It would be well, then, when we begin to tinker with our military laws and regulations, that some channel be created where juniors could, on their own responsibility, place before a special board, made up of civilians as well as military personnel, not only suggestions for improvements, but criticisms of either conditions or the ability or actions of seniors. Had such a channel existed many unhappy incidents might have been avoided. It was neither in the armed forces' interests, the country's interests, nor the senior command's interests, to permit them to wield unchecked the terrific and absolute power which they held over the lives, actions, and thoughts of the men who make up armies.

Cupro-Nickel

By FRANK B. WALKER

Edmonton Bulletin London Bureau

LONDON: Not so many weeks ago, a man walked into a London tobacconist's, asked for cigarettes and tendered a gold sovereign as payment. The girl behind the counter refused to accept it. She did not recognize the coin though it was in fact worth not one pound but some 45 shillings.

Now silver is to vanish as gold has vanished from the coinage of Britain. The five-shilling piece and the silver three-penny bit are and the decay begun in 1920 with already almost extinct and now they are to be followed by the sixpence, the shilling, the florin and the half-crown.

The announcement points out without any violation of present banking practice; and on a sound-er basis. The provincial government therefore proposes to issue credit certificates based on a safe percentage of the value of the natural resources of the province and deposit these with the banks who will then issue financial credit in exactly the same way as they do at present; but in the proper manner to ensure a fair price and a steady price level.

A board of credit commissioners is to be set up. Detailed plans of operation must of necessity be left to the board to work out. Discussion of plans would only be in order after validation of the Act by the courts. If the Bill of Rights can be put into effect, it will be the first step, if not the solution of the problem of parity prices for which farmers have been striving ever since they became organized. Therefore it is of supreme importance that every farmer use his utmost influence in any organization of which he is a member, to insist that the Bill be given a trial in actual practice.

rather brusquely that the existing silver coinage was debased in the first great war and one is left to assume that the present move is merely following tradition. But though the currency was debased at least we could call ourselves and still ask for silver when we needed change. What man, who is still a man, would dare ask for "cupro-nickel"?

But the process, though unpleasant, is apparently inevitable. Silver must go, even if it is only tinsel, as it has gone since the end of the first world war. The reason this is due to the increase in the price of silver, and not England but the United States is responsible for that.

The metallic value of the new shilling coin will be—and this should only be whispered—1-20 of a penny, based on a price for silver of a halfpenny an ounce and nickel three farthings an ounce.

One reason for the change is the need to repay in silver to the United States the 372,000,000 ounces of silver received through Lend Lease. There is, furthermore, a demand for more silver for industrial use. All this has led to "cupro-nickel"

The new process announced this week will not be a speedy one. The previous debasement took nearly 20 years. One more issue remains however—a question asked by the British in connection with many things—"Can fortune really smile when a palm has been crossed with nickel?" Worse still. Will fortune attempt to smile when a palm has been crossed with cupro-nickel?

Sees Sport as Aid In Curbing Crime

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The United States attorney-general, Tom Clark, Friday called on sport leaders everywhere for help in solving the juvenile delinquency problem.

"If every community had a first-rate, well-planned sports program," Mr. Clark said, "many a potential delinquent could be saved."

As attorney-general, Mr. Clark is ward of 500 youngsters in the national training school for boys here. His talks with the boys have convinced him, he said, that sports are tops as a crime preventative.

Mr. Clark said he had a reason for appealing to sport leaders now. There will be a national council on juvenile delinquency here Nov. 20-22. More than 1,000 civic organizations have agreed to attend.

Honor Civil Servant in Arctic Who Saved Life of Eskimo Girl

OTTAWA, (CP)—Patience and perseverance of Herbert Weyrich, 42, a transport department employe at Nottingham island and Clyde river, Baffin Land, credited with saving the life of an Eskimo girl, Thursday won formal recognition.

In April, 1944, six-year-old Susie Nakoolak suffered widespread burns when her clothing caught fire. She was taken to the transport department radio station and a long battle started to save her life. Weyrich and four other department employes were at the station. They obtained instructions by radio on how to administer emergency treatment.

For five months they treated her day and night. She could not stand the touch of clothing on her back so the men improvised a cot with a canopy heated by electric light. One of the toughest jobs was to keep up her morale. She did not understand English but Weyrich kept her amused by the hour by acting pantomine stories. Finally she was well enough to be moved and was flown out to the hospital at The Pas, where she has since completely recovered.

Weyrich, whose home is in Montreal, had been in the north since 1942. He came out this year on the supply ship Nascopie with the object of going to Luxembourg to see his father and other relatives who have survived the German occupation. Thursday he was the central figure at a gathering of senior officials of the radio branch of the department. C. P. Edwards, deputy minister, presented him with a Royal Canadian Humane Society parchment in recognition of his "prompt action and presence of mind."

The population of division No. 1 which includes Medicine Hat and the towns of Bow Island, Irvine and Taber, rose from 29,595 in 1941 to 30,982 in 1946. Division No. 3, which includes Bassano, Brooks and Redcliff, fell from 15,518 to 14,655.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., (AP) — Scientists have added a new accomplishment to their list—they now can take the body temperature of a grasshopper.

Better Facilities Tourists Stressed

OTTAWA, (CP) — Long-range planning, with emphasis on improvement "physical" facilities, was provement of "physical" facilities, was needed to assure continued success of the Canadian travel industry, Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian Travel bureau, said Thursday.

In an address to the 14th annual convention of the Canadian association of Travel and Publicity Bureaus, he said the inter-provincial tourist conference held here early this week probably will be made an annual affair.

"Physical" assets — accommodation, roads, sanitary facilities — could be improved. The public also should be educated to the economic value of the industry and the value of courtesy, neatness and cleanliness.

Dan Campbell, director of the publicity and travel branch of the Alberta department of economic affairs, said his government in 1946 had taken for the first time "the full plunge" and entered the tourist industry in a greater way than ever before. But outside help was needed. Alberta believed "this association should be to the travel industry what the Canadian Manufacturers' association is to the manufacturing industry," he said.

W.A.S. Tegart of the Saskatchewan Travel bureau said roads were a chief Saskatchewan problem.

Hint Zaibatsu Aided War Plan

TOKYO, (AP) — The defence raised the question of possible Zaibatsu connections with Japan's aggression at the international war crimes trial Thursday although no Zaibatsu are among the 27 defendants.

J. G. Leibert of Omaha, prosecution economist, replied to defence questions that Japanese industrial preparations for war "could not have been made without use of the skills and facilities at the command of the Zaibatsu.

"Unco-operative people," he added "were eliminated."

See Little Effect On Canada Prices

OTTAWA, (CP)—Action of the United States Office of Price Administration in removing ceilings from practically all foods and drinks is not expected to have a widespread effect in Canada, prices board officials said.

Oranges which Canada imports from the United States were cited as an example. The ceiling price in Canada is the O.P.A. ceiling plus a specified mark-up and transportation costs. In some foods, described as being in the semi-luxury class, Canadian ceiling prices are the current American price, plus a mark-up and transportation, and these food presumably would increase.

Canadian ceilings have been lifted on some foods regarded as in the luxury class.

Claims Russia 'Still Generous'

TEHERAN, Iran, (AP)— Prince Mozaffer Firouz, new Iranian ambassador in Moscow, said Thursday, "We desire to have closer relations with Russia, who was generous to us in the pact of 1902."

"With my new office, I will prove to Iranians that Russia is still generous," he said.

Ministers Picket the White House

This is part of the picket line, which included 30 ministers, that paraded before the White House in Washington, in an effort to obtain amnesty for all American draft law violators during the war. The pickets represent the Committee for Amnesty, New York city. A spokesman for the group said that it was their aim not only to obtain the release of all conscientious objectors still held by U.S. federal authorities, but also to restore citizenship to those already released. One thousand, two hundred objectors of the 6,000 held during the war are still in custody.

Canadian Airmen Flock to R. A. F.

By Richard Sanburn

OTTAWA.—Hundreds of Canada's war-trained flying men are flocking to join Britain's Royal Air Force.

Although it was only a week ago that it was announced the R.A.F. would accept trained Canadian air crew men who wished to continue service flying as a career, R.C.A.F. headquarters in Ottawa has already received between 600 and 700 applications. "They're pouring in," said one official.

The R.C.A.F., acting for the R.A.F. in collecting applications and necessary documents, has mixed feelings about the whole thing.

"These aren't chaps that the R.C.A.F. doesn't want," said one official. "Most of them are men we'd like to have very much, but there just isn't room for them in the peacetime air force here."

The R.A.F. is prepared to accept applications from Canadian officers and airmen who have trained up to at least O.T.U. standards, meaning operational training. Actual operational experience during the war will be considered an added asset.

The officers and airmen who are applying are men who have taken their discharges from the R.C.A.F. Now, they want to go on flying in uniform, and Canada has far too many air crew men for its own force to handle unless its peacetime establishment is boosted, and that doesn't seem likely.

Electric Strike Virtually Settled

HAMILTON, (CP)— The 16-week wages-hours strike at the Westinghouse Electric plant here has been virtually settled, it was announced Thursday.

Only step remaining before the 4,000 employes return to work is ratification at a union membership meeting Friday night of terms agreed on by its negotiation committee and the management at negotiations conducted by Judge J. C. Reynolds.

Asks Ottawa Build Veterans' Homes

CHESTER, N.S., (CP)—The building of homes in which veterans and their families may live is a national responsibility, Angus MacInnis, C.C.F. member of parliament for Vancouver East, said in a public address here.

Mr. MacInnis estimated 750,000 homes were needed in Canada and said it was not the building material shortage which was chiefly responsible for holding up construction but lack of government planning.

"If the government had applied themselves to planning for the building of houses as they planned for the production of war materials we would be a long way on the road to solving our housing problem," he said.

Absence Rate High In Canadian Schools

REGINA, (CP)— Fifteen percent of Canada's 2,000,000 school children are absent from their classes every day, Dr. J. A. Phillips, Toronto, director of a dominion-wide school health survey, said here.

Dr. Phillips is touring western Canada in connection with the survey sponsored by the Canadian Education association and the Canadian Public Health association.

He said that 640 teachers throughout Canada were co-operating in the study begun last year. Purpose of the research is to increase efficiency and health in Canadian youth.

Farmer Held Up By Armed Thugs

VANCOUVER, (CP)—Widespread search is underway for three gunmen who Wednesday night robbed Alex Augustus, Lulu island farmer, of $250 after forcing him to drive to a lonely part of South Vancouver where he was forced out of his own automobile.

Augustus said the men were armed and masked when they held him up in his garage, and then forced him to drive away in his car.

"They sentenced me to death," he told police. "They may come back and kill me."

South Hangings To Equal Record

OTTAWA, (CP)—The scheduled hanging of four German prisoners of war in Lethbridge will equal the record for the number of hangings in any one jail in Canada on a single day, a justice department source said Friday.

On Oct. 24, 1924, four persons were hanged in Montreal for their part in the Hochelaga bank robbery case. Six persons in all were sentenced to death for participatng in the murder-marked robbery, but two had their sentences commuted.

The four hanged were Gui Seraphini, Tony Frank, Frank Gambino, and Louis Morel.

The prisoners of war, tentatively scheduled to be hanged Nov. 13, are Bruno Perzenowski, Walter Wolf, Henrich Busch and Willi Mueller. They were convicted on charges of murdering a fellow prisoner, Karl Lehmann.

Sees Big Change Battleship Design

LONDON, (Reuters)— Battleships of the future may possibly look more like large submarines than like the men of war of the last generation, Rear Admiral H. G. Thursfield said in "Brassey's Naval Annual for 1946." Wednesday.

Admiral Thursfield said it was too often asserted that the atomic bomb would render all existing weapons obsolete and would govern the design of all weapons of the future.

"The atomic bomb is in fact nothing but a bigger and better bomb and as such, it may possibly prove to be capable of sinking any ship that may be within range of its destructive effect when it explodes," he said

British Couple Kept Out All Day While Landlady Sitting in 'Pub'

LONDON, (CP) — Man's inhumanity to man—and a landlady's toward her tenant—is getting an airing in Britain as an increasing number of persons bring their accommodation problems before rent tribunals.

The tribunals have power to order rent reductions if they think fit. Irate landladies must wait three months before revenging themselves by serving notice.

Sometimes the cases are routine—tenants who think they're being charged too much for the premises they occupy. But frequently there are disclosures of high rents extracted from desperate people in return for pitifully inadequate accommodation.

Ordered Out All Day

There was, for example, the plight of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Alexander, who paid £2 ($8) a week for a small upstairs room in a house in north London. Their landlady insisted they remain out of their room between 9:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. on week days and 10:00 a.m. and 10:00 p.m. on Sundays.

"I have to keep them and my other tenants out late because I have to go out and try to get my drop of stout," said the landlady, who was ordered to reduce the rent to five shillings weekly. "And I visit a dear sick lady in Highgate. The other days I have my cleaner in. She doesn't like people about when she cleans and she can't come till late."

Alexander, recently discharged from the army, now earns £5 a week as a truck driver.

"I'm frightened it's going to split up our marriage," he said. "My wife can't stand it and we can't find anywhere else. All Sunday we have to walk about. It costs 18s 6d every Sunday for our meals out."

Story Brought Help

Newspaper publicity brought them a change of luck, however. Within 24 hours they received 30 offers of better accommodation.

Sometimes landladies come to the tribunal for help. A Paddington landlady said she was "terrified" of a tenant who had recently obtained a rent reduction, and asked that his three-month guarantee of occupation be lifted.

But the chairman refused her request, adding: "When we visited your house you did not give me the impression of being frightened. I never wish to see again three ladies who shouted at me as you, your sister and your friend did."

DON'T BORROW FROM personal FRIENDS

It was Shakespeare who said:
"Neither a borrower nor a lender be;
"For loan oft loses both itself and friend."

Shakespeare's advice is as sound today as it was when he wrote it, but, then, he was talking of personal friends.

Today, there is no need to lose friends because you need money, for lending money is everyday business at the Bank of Montreal, and, because it is done on a sound and businesslike basis, the Bank, instead of losing friends, makes more and more every day.

To anyone in a position to repay without hardship, the Bank of Montreal lends money for any constructive purpose and at a rate so low as to be negligible—

27¢ a month for a $100 loan

Drew Asks Labor To Remove Reds

TORONTO, (CP)—Organized labor can greatly strengthen its position in the present period of transition if it will remove Communists from its ranks, Premier Drew of Ontario said Thursday in a radio address.

It is the duty of every Canadian who believes in freedom and the preservation of our free society to take an active part in checking Communist sabotage by exposing Communism for what it really is, so that it may be recognized wherever it rears its ugly head," he asserted.

"In no other field of human association have the Communists worked so hard as they have in that of labor relations. What is their purpose?"

The premier quoted a statement by Tim Buck, national leader of the Labor-Progressive party, in which Mr. Buck said that the political value of strikes in Canadian industries tended to be less than in United States plants unless the Communists themselves could prepare them in certain industries. Premier Drew said: "We have Buck's own words: 'Once we have mastered the political strike, the general strike is but a step and the general strike during a political crisis is the gateway to revolution."

Lift Export Ban On Alfalfa Seed

OTTAWA, (CP)—Canadian alfalfa seed, export of which has been restricted over the last few years because of the world seed shortage, now may be exported to any country, the agriculture department announced Thursday.

The only formality now to be met by Canadian exporter is to have an export permit issued by the export permit branch of the trade department.

Up to now the seeds committee of the international emergency food council, which controlleed all exports, restricted shipments to specified countries. Thursday the department was advised that alfalfa seed has been removed from the allocation list.

Production of alfalfa seed in Canada this year was estimated at about 9,000,000 pounds. Domestic requirements will be about 5,500,000 pounds, leaving about 3,500,000 pounds available for export.

Next time you see a neighbor, or one of the fellows who works with you on your job, tell yourself: "He's a mighty lucky man—and so am I."

We all are, here in Canada. Yet "lucky" isn't quite the word for a people who have the common sense and courage to look at the high prices of many unessential things and say: "This price is too high. I won't pay it."

No, it isn't luck. It's character. It's what The House of Seagram has been proud to extol as a Canadian virtue—the ability of the Canadian people to be moderate in all things—in their thinking, in their actions and in their habits.

Nobody's just "lucky" here in Canada; we've just all helped to make ourselves that way. And because today's moderation is the key to tomorrow's abundance, the people of Canada can look forward with certainty to an abundant tomorrow.

U.S. Firms Gamble Millions On Oil Search in Venezuela

EL SOMBRERO, Venezuela, (NANA)—Big U.S. oil companies are pouring $30,000,000 into wild, virgin, blistering hot country near here in the hope that oil will come up. It is the biggest gamble the industry has ever taken anywhere.

Some of the big investment is being made jointly by 11 companies, particularly the several millions spent on whacking down strips through the wilderness and turning them in to almost 200 miles of gravelled roads. In the actual explorations for "black gold," each company is going its own way, and secretly.

Biggest Operators

Biggest operators and major contributors to the joint pool are Texas Petroleum Corp, Creole Petroleum Corp, (affiliate of Standard Oil of New Jersey), and Shell Oil Co. The probing is going on in the state of Guarico, in north central Venezuela.

Must Beat Wilderness

To carry on a project like this, oil companies must literally load civilization on trucks and haul it over their new roads to their camp sites, hewed out of dense woodland and brush. Besides the roads, they must lay miles of pipe lines to transport water from rivers. They bring electric lights, pure water, wholesome food and education. They build modern houses, some of the pre-fabricated steel dwellings shipped down from the U.S.

The Creole company, which is exploring 784,000 acres of land, has just opened two separate school systems for children of its 1,000 workers here. The Venezuelan school also will hold night classes for adults, many of whom cannot read or write.

The other school sytem is for American children and is tuned to the public school system of the United States. The teacher arrived the other day from the U.S., young and attractive. Camp superintendent Joseph Stagg, a bit dismayed, said:

"We won't have her long. One of those single fellows will pick her off and then instead of having a school teacher we'll have another housewife."

Given Three Years

The right to explore land for oil is granted by the Venezuelan government through public bids. The successful bidder has three years in which to conduct his search. At the end of that time he may select up to one-half of the land for exploitation. The sections chosen need not be contiguous. The remaining one-half then reverts to the government which may put it up for bids for exploitation. Any company is privileged to bid, including the one that conducted the exploration.

It is obvious that even rich oil companies are not sinking millions of dollars into exploration work unless there is a good chance of finding oil. The gamble is whether it will be discovered in quantities sufficient to make the undertaking profitable.

Each company makes careful land and topographical surveys. They photograph their entire concession from the air. Geologists make intensive studies. Core holes are drilled as deep as 6,000 feet to gather structural information about the subsurface.

The government guards its oil potential jealously. In this country a farmer owns only the surface rights to his soil. If the government grants a concession to an oil company to explore on his land and petroleum is subsequently discovered, the farmer isn't entitled to a dime in royalties.

Wealth for Country

The maximum cut in royalties to the government is 16-2/3 percent. The oil company must pay the farmer only for the land it takes over in connection with its exploration and drilling activities. The sale price is reached usually in an agreement between the farmer and the company. Condemnation proceedings may be resorted to if necessary.

Already, Venezuela exports more petroleum than any other country in the world. Its present rate of production—1,118,000 barrels a day—exceeds that of any other country except the United States, whose production is about four times as great, and, possibly, Russia, whose output has not been disclosed.

More than 550 percent of all the Venezuelan government's revenue last year came from the oil industry in the form of royalties, exploration concession taxes, income taxes and similar levies. In no normal year does less than one-third of the government's revenue come from the oil industry.

This white monster, a German V-2 rocket projectile, was photographed as it soarded into the sky from the White Sands, N.M., proving grounds by U.S. army engineers. The rocket reached a height of 103 miles, just short of the 105-mile record set by another V-2 last August, but it reached a record speed of 3,600 miles an hour at a point 25 miles above the earth's surface.

Million-Mile Plane Serves Denmark

By Robert C. Durham

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, (NANA)—Probably the oldest aircraft in active commercial service is still flying daily from Copenhagen, Denmark, to Malmo, Sweden. The three-engined Fokker designed in 1928 already has flown more than 1,100,000 miles!

The plane, named after Crown Princess Ingrid of Denmark, is better known by its nickname, "the Malmo Flash." Acquired in 1934 by Danish air lines, "the Flash" has flown more than 7,500 hours without any kind of accident. It is of the same type as that used by Adm. Richard E. Byrd and Col. Bernt Balchen in their famous flight across the Atlantic to France in 1927.

"The Flash" was the pride of the airline before the war, but, following the German invasion, was put to work flying from Copenhagen to the island of Bornholm. It is still the only plane belonging to the commercial airlines which can land on that island.

Immediately after the war it was used to link the Russians on Bornholm with Denmark, and now that it is back in regular service with DDJ (Danish air lines) it makes a daily trip to Bornholm, now evacuated by the Russians.

In addition to its daily Bornholm flight, "the Flash" also makes ten daily round-trips to Malmo. The flight is an hour-ten minutes—that it takes longer for passengers to clear customs and immigration.

In the current crop of airplane accidents, "the Malmo Flash" stands out as an example of the kind of safety in aviation that can be achieved by all.

Rancher Wins Duel With Angry Deer

MEDFORD, Ore., (AP)—Bud Turnbough, Thompson Creek rancher, got his deer the hard way—with an axe and hammer.

Turnbough reported Thursday that while nearing his home last Friday, a large stag struck him from behind and knocked him flat.

Turnbough managed to get to his feet and begin a furious duel with the enraged animal.

The buck, with head wounds and a broken leg, refused to retreat and on one axe swing Turnbough's grasp loosened and he lost his weapon. He reached into a pocket for his hammer and got in a blow to the deer's head which killed it just as help arrived.

Turnbough was not seriously hurt.

Phinney Appointed Yukon Magistrate

By Richard Sanburn

OTTAWA — L. H. Phinney, former assistant legal counsel to the Manitoba legislative council, and now commissioner for northwest defence projects at Edmonton, has been appointed a stipendiary magistrate at Dawson, Y.T.

The announcement was made by the department of mines and resources. A graduate of the University of Manitoba, Mr. Phinney practised law in Winnipeg until 1927.

It was announced Mr. Phinney would continue as special commissioner until taking over his new duties sometime in November. If there still is work to be done at the defence project's office at that time a successor will be named until the office is closed. Mr. Phinney is reported winding up the affairs of the office as it is felt to be no longer needed with the Alaska highway returned to Canada.

Finish Evidence Against Benning

OTTAWA, (CP) — The crown closed its case against 33-year-old James Benning in Ontario supreme court Friday with the evidence of two former colleagues of his with the wartime munitions and supply department. It is alleged he gave confidential information to the Russians while with the department.

J. C. Doble, now with the reconstruction department, identified a number of departmental reports, letters, telegrams and pieces of information available to Benning in his work and said they corresponded to items noted on a Russian embassy mailing list and credited to the agent Foster. In some, he said, there were discrepancies as to dates and size.

Miss Enid Martin identified a document in the handwriting of H. S. Gerson, recently sentenced to five years for conspiracy. Gerson married the sister of Benning's wife and worked with him in the department.

The document, taken from the embassy files, is a summary of an official report on a test in which the super-explosive RDX was used.

Find Small Child, But Mother Lost

VANCOUVER, (CP)—Two-and-a-half year old Rudy Goudin, missing with her mother since they left in the family automobile Tuesday to go shopping was found late Thursday.

She was alone in the car, which had been abandoned on Brumby mountain. The mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Goudin is still missing.

The child was apparently kept from hunger by a supply of chocolate candy left in the car by her mother.

Mrs. Goudin left two other small children at home, a girl and a boy, both under school age.

Her husband, Dr. M. Goudin, believes his wife is suffering from amnesia.

B. C. Lumber Sales To U. K. Increase

VANCOUVER, (CP)— Shipments of lumber from British Columbia to the United Kingdom totalled 48,246,000 board feet in August this year compared with 43,000,000 board feet in the previous month, the Pacific lumber inspection bureau announced Thursday.

Total B.C. coast production of lumber during August was 120,000,000 board feet and 4,804,000 board feet went to Australia; 3,645,000 board feet to China and 6,814,000 board feet to Africa.

Hope to Forewarn Hay Fever Victims

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The United States weather bureau is hard at work on a "storm warning" system for hay fever and asthma sufferers.

If all goes as planned, the bureau said Friday it will be able to forecast 24 to 48 hours in advance when a mass of air with a high ragweed pollen content will reach a given area.

This will give the sneezers time to (1) get out or (2) lay in a supply of handkerchiefs and tissues.

Scientists of Canada, U. S. Defeat Deadly Cattle Plague

WASHINGTON, (NANA)—On an isolated island near the mouth of the St. Lawrence river. A small group of American and Canadian scientists, their work attended with the utmost secrecy, have conquered one of the most virulent disease diseases known to science; one which, there was good reason to believe, either the Germans or Japanese intended to set loose in North America.

Hed they succeeded it might well have been equivalent to a major victory. The virus was that of rinderpest—the fulminating, fatal fever of cattle and other livestock which, once started, spreads like wildfire and destroys herds over large areas.

Feared Balloon Carriers

When Japanese paper balloons drifted over the Pacific and dropped in the west during the war, neither American nor Canadian army chemical officers thought for a moment they were intended for any such futile purpose as setting forests on fire—the most prevalent lay speculation. The real purpose, they feared, was to introduce rinderpest germs on this continent.

Actually this never could be proved from examination of the balloons; but intelligence reports indicated at the time the Japs intended to use the virus as a war weapon.

It never has appeared in North America. Consequently no American animals have any special resistance to it, and, once started, its spread was bound to be rapid. A few vials of the virus could have been brought into the country easily by a saboteur.

Humans not Immune

Recently it had been demonstrated that man himself was not immune to rinderpest, although there have been few human cases reported.

There was no know remedy. The first step in attacking the defence problem was to set up an American-Canadian joint commission in 1944. The most isolated island possible was chosen for the work, lest the virus escape in some way.

Within a short time an adequate vaccine had been produced, but it was difficult and expensive to manufacture. Still, adequate amounts were made to check any epidemic which might start. Toward the end of the war the scientists in the island laboratory, it is revealed now by the U.S. chemical warfare service, had perfected a technique by which the vaccine could be manufactured cheaply and in immense quantities by growing the virus on egg yolks.

Vaccine in Use

This new vaccine already has been used to check one serious rinderpest outbreak in British West Africa. Large quantities have been taken to China by UNRRA for treating infected herds. The vaccine will help relieve starvation in India, China and the Pacific islands, where it has been the greatest scourge of cattle herds.

It is described as "one of the most contagious, infectious and fatal of all diseases." The virus retains its virulence for several days even when exposed to sunshine and the elements. It causes a violent, eruptive fever which spreads through all the herds in a large area in a few days. It was considered one of the worst accompaniments of medieval wars, but seldom has appeared in Europe during the past century.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

Kenneth Edward (Cagey) Doraty, the smallest player that ever chased pucks in the National Hockey League, has a new job on his hands this winter. He's coaching the Moose Jaw juniors and if he can impart to his proteges even a small part of the skill he used in flipping loose pucks past worried goalies, the Canucks should get along alright.

"CAGEY," born in Stittsville, Ont., on June 26, 1906, broke into the pro game with Portland Rosebuds, eventually hitting the Toronto Maple Leafs for the 1932-33 season and he also was with that club for the next two years. Detroit (Red Wings), Indianapolis, Cleveland, Pittsburgh were some more of his other ports of call.

There never was much bulk to right-winging Kenny Doraty, but, borrowing from baseball — when the bases were loaded in the last inning with two men out and a run was needed, an emergency call usually went out to the best pinch-hitter the game ever knew. Of course Ken'll always be remembered for the goal which won that super-marathon for Toronto Leafs against Boston Bruins back in 1933. Doraty's top weight in those days was around 128 pounds, but he has put on a few since then. Now he's a coach and he's one of hockey's good guys.

Bev Bentley's Back Again

This is the third season Edmonton hockey fans have had the pleasure of watching Metro Prystai, unquestionably one of Canada's greatest juniors. Bev Bentley, who put an especially fine display of goaling in the second period was with Canucks two years ago.

Some of the boys who played Thursday were with the team last season, but there are several newcomers in Ken Doraty's club which knocked over Winnipeg Monarchs 4-2 Saturday night. Ken, incidentally, says Regina Pats look like a dangerous aggregation.

Marsh Bentley, 19 years, played with Dellsle intermediates last season. His father is Bev's dad's uncle, and so of course, is also Doug's and Max's uncle. Angus Juckes, 16, is from Melville and Tommy Thompson and Frank Hoskins (Frank got two goals last night) are both 17 and they live in Melville. Ron Whiteside, who will be playing Saturday, is 17 and lives in North Battleford.

Shooting Edge to Canadians

Canadians outshot Canucks 39 to 31 Thursday night, but Moose Jaw held an 11 to 6 edge during the first period. Canadians came back with 17 to 8 and 16 to 12 margins in the succeeding chapters.

It was not known early this morning just how seriously Jimmy King's ankle was injured, but X-rays were taken and he's in the Royal Alex hospital. Jimmy is the third Canadian out of action after two games, Don Slater still being in Lethbridge hospital and Harry Groves may not see any action even on Saturday.

Ron Matthews had a pair of valuable goals and an assist and also did a neat defence job with Bob Gray. Normie Kirk and Eddie Thomas combined for the picture goal of the night. Jim Mailley, who had a goal and an assist, comes from Trail.

New Westminster Stops Tacoma 8-4

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Oct. 25 —(CP)— New Westminster Royals took their first win of the season last night when they laced Tacoma's Rockets before a crowd of 1,500 fans in a Pacific Coast League fixture.

Koch, Ullyott and Bentley were the big guns for the locals, each scoring two, Smith and Dorohoy were responsible for the other two. Rypien did the bell-ringing for Tacoma, putting away half their total goals, while Carrigan scored the other two.

Rods dropped last night's contest at Osborne Stadium 16-13, but their 8-0 victory here Tuesday night gave them the round 21-16.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 25. -(AP)- Indianapolis Capitals gave an impressive display of power last night as they ran up an 8-3 victory over New Haven Ramblers before 6,302 American Hockey League fans.

Right wing Gerry Couture, who poked in five goals against Philadelphia Rockets in his last appearance before Indianapolis fans, tallied three of the Caps' goals.

Seattle Ironmen Take Over Lead

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 25-(AP)- The Seattle Ironmen took over the lead in the northern division of the Pacific Coast Hockey League last night by pinning the first defeat of the year on the Portland Eagles, 5-3.

It was a rough contest with 19 penalties that saw both teams short of players through most of the game. Goalie Jerry Fodey of Portland drew a penalty, an infrequent occurrence, for throwing the puck forward. Red Carr served out the time for him.

Kerr, Milford, Waldner, Ballance and Robinson did the scoring for the Ironmen while Allen, Marchand and Dalgleish notched the Portland counters.

Cow "Rasslin" Attracts 650,000

WORLD RODEO IS RATED 2nd IN DRAWING POWER

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—Riding the old Manhattan trail for the first time, the lean weather-beaten cowhands from Canada and western United States are giving blase New Yorkers their annual taste of live horse opera with the "world championship rodeo."

Sophisticates who look down the end of the nose at such "corn" may be surprised to learn that the cow 'Rasiin' will draw about $1,300,000 into the Maddison Square Garden coffers during its 52-performance stand. Only the circus does better.

UNOFFICIAL ESTIMATES PLACE the total attendance at 650,000 by the time of the Sunday night closing.

Every saddlesore, a ranch operator from Dublin, Texas, owns most of the 700-head herd of stock used in the two-hour performance and is a major stockholder in the organization that runs the annual event. Gene Autry, the star performer and radio and movie ace, also owns a piece of the show so does the garden corporation.

CURRENT LEADER OF THE 200 competing cowboys is a 24-year-old rider from Red Lodge, Montana, Bud Linderman, who has been at the business seven years or since he was only 17. If it wasn't for a broken neck that sidelined his brother Bill for the rest of the season, Bud probably still would be just a runner-up. The elder Linderman boy was the all-around champion cowboy last year and led in 1946 until he was injured in August at Deadwood, S.D.

TOP MAN OF THE NEW YORK SHOW figures to take away about $7,500 of the $154,040 prize money. But the season, now almost over, runs about 11 months and rewards its highest winner with $25,000 income.

Strangest quirk of the entire rodeo setup to the average bystander is the fact that all contestants have to pay entry fees and no regular salaries are dished out. The cowhands must subsist on prize money. They compete on an average of once every five performances.

Although the average hand grosses about $7,000 annually, Earl Lindsey business representative of the boys, figures a cowhand has a good year if he winds up with $3,000 net to take back home for the winter.

Claim Interference Rule Abused in East

TORONTO, Oct. 25 (CP) — In eastern Canada's "test season" of football's 10-yard interference rule, a first-class controversy shaped up today not so much over merits of the regulation, but over alleged abuses of the help it permits team-mates to give their ball-carriers on the way to the opposing goal.

The finger was pointed squarely at top teams in both the east's league's that challenge for the Dominion championship Grey Cup —Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton Wildcats.

EVEN THE COACH Ted Morris of the champion Toronto Argonauts, who resists any attempt to "Americanize" the Canadian game, conceded that spectator thrills were added when the three-yard interference rule was extended to 10, thus eliminating for a trial season that last major difference in the Canadian game as played in east and west.

"So long as it stays at a 10-yard limit and is enforced, I won't kick," said Ted. "But it isn't being enforced. For instance, the rule says only men on the line can interfere for 10 yards, but Montreal use their backfielders for blocking all the time."

MORRIS confined his complaints to his own interprovincial union, where Argos have two crucial games coming up against the American-studded Montreal Alouettes. Taking up the cudgels for the Ontario union was Ted Reeve, who hasn't strayed far from the bench job with Toronto Balmy Beach that he gave up last season.

Ted, quoting the rule in his Evening Telegram sports column, noted that eligible 10-yard interference must be within one yard of the scrimmage line, not in motion toward the opponent's goal, when the ball is snapped. The rule says they must form, and for the purpose of creating interference must remain formed, in a single line parrallel to the line of scrimmage.

HAMILTON Wildcats, whom coach Frank Gnup of Buffalo, N. Y., has welded into a potent contender, are guilty on two counts, he charged.

They follow the American system of pulling men out of the line to lead ball-carriers around end, thus breaking the "remained formed in a single line" clause, he said. Also they are as guilty as Alloucttes in bringing backfielders up and through the line to make interference beyond the one-yard the rule allows.

INJURED — Jimmy King, who centred one line for Canadians, gained Moose Jaw Canucks last night, scored the goal which put Moose Jaw Canucks out in front during the second period. Jimmy sustained an ankle injury in the final 30-minute stretch and was later removed to hospital.

Huskies To Play Here On Saturday

SASKATOON, Oct. 25 -(CP)- University of Saskatchewan Huskies will leave here tonight for Edmonton where they meet the University of Alberta Golden Bears in the third and fourth games of the western intercollegiate football schedule for the Hardy Trophy Saturday afternoon and Monday night.

The Bears won the first two games of the series here by 8-0 and 18-0 scores.

Meeting to organize midget and juvenile hockey leagues will be held in the Civic Block commencing at 8 o'clock tonight.

Canadians Outpoint Canuck Juniors 6-3

Edmonton Club Goes Into Lead In 2nd Period

Making an impressive home-ice start, Edmonton Canadians outscored Moose Jaw Canucks 6-3 in a renewal of inter-club rivalry before a small crowd of 1,638 paying customers at the arena here Thursday night. The same teams play again Saturday.

After finishing the first period on even terms with the count standing at 1-1, the Edmonton juniors forged ahead with a pair of early goals in the second and they added three more in the third beat while the visitors were collecting two.

DEFENCEMAN Ron Matthews led the Canadian offensive with a goal in both first and third periods, Jimmy King, Doug Anderson, Jim Mailley and Normie Kirk contributing the others. Seventeen-year-old Frank Hoskins, one of two Kamsack boys with the Canucks, tallied twice the opening coming from Metro Prystai ever potent stick.

The two clubs entirely swapped goals in the first period, although the Canucks held an edge on the play and out-shot the Canadians 12 to 6. The Edmonton juniors, however, dominated the next two sessions and were on even the five to two-goal margin. Canadians had a 39 to 31 advanage in shots on the net for the entire game

PRYSTAI was through for the first shot on Johnny Sofiak seconds after the start of the game, but Hammond immediately replied for Canadians.

Prystai drilled a 20-footer in between Sofiak's right pad and the post at 4:31, after taking the puck from Juckes close to the blue line.

A COUPLE of minutes later, Bedard was sent off for holding Kirk's stick and Canadians applied the pressure, Matthews eventually back-handing the rubber past Bev Bentley after receiving a pass from Eddie Thomas.

There was no more scoring in the period, although both sides held a man advantage at different times, Bedard being given a misconduct after a stick-checking penalty and Hammond being sent off for hooking.

CANADIANS went to work in the second period and Bentley put on a grand show as the Edmonton juniors pressed.

King sent the home club ahead at 5:53, taking a pass from Matthews and catching the net high up with a shot from the left about 15 feet out.

Doug Anderson's goal three minutes later which put Canadians up 3-1, was scored on a rebound from Mailley's shot.

HOSKINS CUT the Edmonton lead early in the final period with a back-hand toss from the right boards, the puck sliding into the net off the goalie's skate.

It was just after this that King sustained an ankle injury and left the game, later being sent to the Royal Alex hospital. Shortly after resumption of play, Kirk and Lovett were sent off for fighting and they had just nicely settled in the penalty box when Thomas and Hunchuk followed for the same reason. Thomas being given a major.

THE TEAMS were at full strength when Matthews put Canadians up 4-2, but Hoskins was left uncovered in front of the Edmonton net a minute later and slapped in Hunchuk's pass from the corner.

Mailley's goal which came at 15:55 was of the flukey variety, the puck glancing into the net off Juckes stick.

Kirk's counter scored in the last minute finished off a stylish passing thrust with Thomas.

Lineups:

Moose Jaw—goal, Bentley; defence, Tafalla, Bedard; centre, Pitman wings, Prystai, Krekewicz. Subs, Hunchuk, Lovett, Bentley, Juckes, Hoskins, Thompson, Whiteside.

Four Red Sox Named To All-Stars of 1946

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP) — Dominated by Boston Red Sox with four members, the 1946 major league all-star team chosen for The Associated Press by 122 baseball writers showed a strong American League complexion, with seven representatives to the National League's three.

St. Louis Cardinals, world series conquerors of the Red Sox, landing all three national league positions.

One player each from Detroit, Cleveland and New York Yankees completed the roster and gave the American League its huge majority.

OF THE 10 MEN selected (two pitchers were named), eight are former servicemen.

No player was a unanimous choice. Ted Williams drew the most support, the Boston Red Sox outfielder being named in 120 of the 122 Ballots cast. Bobby Doerr, his teammate, ranked next with 117 votes, Then came Hal Newhouser, Detroit Tiger ace left-hander, with 102, and Stan Musial of the Cardinals, with 96. Musial received 81 votes for first base, the rest for centre and right fields.

THE SELECTIONS:

Out-fielders — Ted Williams, Red Sox; Dom Dimaggio, Red Sox; and Enos Slaughter, Cardinals.

First base — Stan Musial, Cardinals.

Second base — Bobby Doerr, Red Sox.

Third base — George Kurowski, Cardinals.

Shortstop — Johnny Pesky, Red Sox.

Catcher — Aaron Robinson, Yankees.

Pitchers — Hal Newhouser, Tigers, and Bob Feller, Indians.

The closest race developed for third base when Kurowski nosed out George Kell of the Tigers, 57 to 55. The widest divergence of opinion involved the catchers, nine receiving support.

One of the biggest surprises was the failure of Hank Greenberg, the majors' home run and runs batted in king, to receive a single vote.

Canadian Legion basketball team will hold a practice in Victoria High school gym Friday night starting at 7:30 o'clock. All ex-service girls will be welcome.

An electronic stopwatch can count at speeds as high as 1,000,000 objects or movements per second.

South African Premier Makes $3,340,000 Gift to Britain

This photograph was taken as Field Marshal Smuts, prime minister of the Union of South Africa, handed a gold certificate for $3,340,000 to Mr. Attlee at 10 Downing st., London, as a "nation-wide offering" to the people of Britain from the people of South Africa, Basutoland, Bechuanaland and Swaziland, the only conditions being that the gift be used "for the advantage of the British people." Left to right are Field Marshal Smuts, Mr. Attlee, British premier, and Mrs. Ellis Brown, mayoress of Barban.

Red Faces Caused as Monarch Breaks Key in Opening Library

OXFORD, England, (CP) — His Majesty the King formally opened the new £1,000,000 ($4,000,000) extension of Oxford university's Bodleian library Thursday—but only after a difficulty.

After dedicating the structure to the advancement of universal learning and international goodwill, the King slipped the silver key in the door, turned it and snapped it in two in the lock.

Ceremonially-robed university dignitaries, headed by the Earl of Halifax, former ambassador to Washington, pushed and shoved and shook at the door in an effort to break into the library. But the door would not give.

Finally officials inside the library realized the trouble and drew the bolts.

The door opened. The crowd cheered. The King entered the library and declared it open—at last.

Founded by Sir Thomas Bodley more than 300 years ago, the library has housed masterpieces of English scholarship and art as well as companion treasures from many lands. Queen Mary laid the foundation stone of the new building in 1937.

Acquit First Mate Of "Terror Voyage"

VANCOUVER, (CP)— Berg Bentzen, first mate on the Waihemo, the Vancouver-owned ship which arrived here last week after what crew members described as a "terror voyage" from Australia, has been acquitted on a charge of assault by Magistrate H. S. Wood in police court.

He was accused of assaulting S. Soeling, a crew member, at Bluff, New Zealand, last Aug. 1. Soeling told the court he was assaulted when the crew marooned along the deck past Bentzen, making "offhand remarks to him."

CALGARY, (CP)— F. S. Fry, Calgary, has been appointed president of the Calgary council of the Boy Scout association, it was announced Thursday.

See No Prospect Big Three Parley

LONDON, (CP)— British government sources Thursday could see no immediate prospect of a Big Three meeting to consider international tensions brought to the surface by the Paris peace conference, the United Nations meetings and statements by British, United States and Russian leaders.

British goodwill was voiced by State Minister McNeil in Wednesday's commons debate when he said that Foreign Secretary Bevin is ready to participate in any further meetings of the Big Three or Four if private informal conversations would help better conditions.

However, a spokesman at 10 Downing st. said Thursday it is "the wildest rumor" that Prime Minister Attlee, President Truman and Prime Minister Stalin might meet soon to seek solutions as did Winston Churchill, the late President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Stalin in wartime. There is not even an indication that such a meeting is thought of seriously in official circles which are leaving discussions to Mr. Bevin and his aides who are in touch with their counterparts in other countries.

At the British Trades Union Congress Thursday, Louis Saillant, general secretary of the World Federation of Trade Unions, suggested a Big Three conference if the diplomatic atmosphere does not improve.

Asks Government 'Restore Freedom'

REGINA, (CP)—J. M. Macdonnell, M.P. for Muskoka, Ont., said Thursday that Canada came out of the war "almost a socialistic state" and that the federal government was doing "nothing to restore freedom."

In an address at the convention of the Saskatchewan Progressive Conservative association, Mr. Macdonnell called for relaxation of Foreign Exchange Control board restrictions and the "monopoly" of the C.B.C.

Moscow Charges Organization Lack

LONDON, (CP) — Moscow radio complained Friday that the opening day session of the United Nations assembly was "characterized by a great lack of organization."

Quoting a Tass dispatch from New York, the broadcast said delegates were hampered by a "tremendous number of police detectives" whose "rude and tactless attitude . . . in particular toward the delegates of the Soviet Union" had been cited by the New York Times.

(The Times published a front page story Thursday, headlined 'Guards Set 'Iron Curtain' at U. N.; Bar Courier, Cifallenge Vishinsky." The story said United Nations "security plans were so secure that they kept out prominent invited guests, reporters, photographers, and even an official United Nations courier.")

Navy Discloses Basic Research

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Vice Admiral Harold G. Bowen, chief of naval research, said Thursday the United States navy has "removed all the wraps of secrecy" from its basic research program.

This means, he said, that the hundreds of scientists participating in it are to publish their findings in papers which may circulate internationally.

But it does not mean, he added, that the navy has no secret scientific projects.

Norwegian Nurse Is Heroine of Fire Drama in Mid-Atlantic as Swedish Liner Burns

When the Swedish ship Kristina Thorden burned in mid-Atlantic early this month, Nora Hoel, left above, nurse on the Norwegian liner Stavangerfjord, came out as the heroine of the rescue drama that was enacted when the Stavangerfjord sped to the rescue. Nurse Hoel went with the first rescue lifeboat and boarded the burning ship, assisting the ship's doctor care for the injured at the risk of her own life and making several lifeboat trips between the stricken craft and the rescue ship to care for persons badly injured in transfer operations. At right, a lifeboat from the Stavangerfjord is shown pulling towards the Kristina Thorden with Nurse Hoel, life-belted, seated facing the coxswain. She is indicated by an arrow.

Plans Dive Six Miles in Sea In Free-Dropping Steel Ball

The world-famous physicist, Auguste Piccard, has explored the stratosphere many times in a balloon. He now is planning to use an inverse application of ballooning technique to explore the ocean floor. The following article by him has been translated by his brother, Jean Piccard, professor of aeronautical engineering at the University of Minnesota.

By Prof. Auguste Piccard

ZURICH, Switzerland, (NANA) — Today a man can safely explore the ocean bottom, six miles down, in a sphere which is not linked to a surface ship by a cable. All previous dives to depths below those at which a submarine or other self-propelled craft can operate have been in a sphere or fully enclosed diving-bell lowered by cable from a ship on the surface.

The principle which I hope to apply in my dive is an inverse form of free ballooning. The open basket will become a steel shell; the gas bag will become an oil-filled container; a manometer will tell depth, replacing the barometer indicating altitude.

As a free-balloon pilot, I was disappointed to see that the distinguished American zoologist, Dr. William Beebe, attached his heavy cabin to a cable when he went 2,300 feet below the sea's surface. Whoever knows both the free balloon and the cable balloon will never hesitate in his choice.

Prefer Free Run

When the wind begins to shake an observation balloon, the pilot, hanging to his basket, always hopes secretly, "if only the cable would break! Then I could make a fine, free flight in steady comfort." But when the waves and sub-ocean currents begin to shake the underwater explorer's cabin, his only hope is that the cable may not break.

It is possible depths even greater than Beebe's will be reached by cable cabin; but the longer the cable, the heavier it will be, the greater the strain and the more violent the motions of the cabin. And the fate of an underwater explorer whose cable catches on a rock is not pleasant to contemplate.

The cabin which I propose is spherical. Of high quality cast steel, it would weigh 19,360 pounds. The upward push of the sea water it would displace is of about 9,240 pounds. Allow weight of crew and instruments at 660 pounds plus 880 pounds of ballast. This means an excess weight of 11,660 pounds. This must be balanced by our submarine "gas bag" — in this case a waterproof cloth bag of strong fabric with a volume of about 1,800 cubic feet.

Oil - Filled "Balloon"

This balloon is filled with oil. Gas would be compressed with the increasing depth until it lost all lifting force. A liquid, on the other hand, is less compressible; its volume remains nearly constant under pressure. If one could find an oil of the same compressibility as water, the lifting force of our balloon would remain constant at any depth.

It would be possible to dispense entirely with the balloon by making a sphere of dural, one of the new aluminum alloys, which would be strong enough to resist pressures up to depths of three miles, yet light enough to give a free lift to 650 pounds. Once ballast had been cast off at the sea bottom, the dural sphere would rise to the surface quite comfortably.

In either case, however, liberal amounts of ballast will be needed to descend rapidly. The ballast would consist of iron shot, carried outside the cabin in a brass container with an outlet at the bottom. The shot is magnetized and will run out only when the electric current is broken. Wire netting will prevent small fish or seaweed from clogging the free flow of shot and, should the worst come to the worst, the whole ballast container can be jettisoned. The container itself is attached to the outer shell of the sphere by a magnet.

Report by Wireless

Grabs attached to the outside of the sphere could be controlled from within for picking up specimens, despatching them in a container also fixed outside the sphere. But since our main task would be observation, the first need among outside fixtures is a powerful light to pierce the eternal night of the ocean floor. Thick conical windows will permit us to look out, and our observations would be dicated to a stenographer aboard the surface craft by special short-wave wireless.

The direction of these supersonic waves would also permit our friends on the surface to keep track of us as we float about the ocean bottom, driven by water currents just as a balloon is driven by the wind, so they will be waiting to hold us aboard when we at last rise to the surface.

From Dr. Beebe's reports we learn that with every foot one descends one finds new forms of life, new beasts large and small. What we do not know are the looks of those fish, certainly numerous, who did not trust the looks of the great intruder who was in continuous motion. Beebe must have scared away many calm denizens of deep waters.

How much more effective could our observations be if one could go to the very bottom of the ocean and live there, motionless or drifting gently with the current, to watch ocean life, undisturbed, six miles below the surface.

B. C. Firm Claims Huge War Damage

VANCOUVER, (CP) — A war damage claim of $3,407,922 has been lodged with the Australian government by Burns Gold Dredging Company, Ltd., it was disclosed Thursday in the annual report of the British Columbia corporation.

The damage claim covers totally or partially destroyed properties of the company in New Guinea, one of the battle zones in the war against Japan. The report said the claim is being checked by the Australian war damage commission and that against the final settlement, the commission is advancing funds to meet the company's rehabilitation costs.

Mother Acquitted Of Baby Murder

SAINT JOHN, N.B., (CP)—Beatrice Margaret Gaudet, Sydney, N.S., charged with murdering her three-weeks-old daughter, was acquitted Thursday by a jury in Saint John supreme court.

Chief crown witness was John Stewart Simpkins, who once lived in Winnipeg and St. James, Man. Previously tried on the same charge, he was convicted and sentenced to be hanged. He has a wife and several children at Merigonish, N.S.

The baby's body was found in Saint John harbor early last month. According to medical testimony, death was caused by drowning.

Ship 20 Beavers To South America

MIAMI, Fla., (AP)—Twenty young beavers, anything but "eager" in Miami's tropical climate, were ready to continue their 12,000-mile journey Friday from the Canadian north woods to the lower tip of South America.

The furred creatures, their pelts worth an estimate $12,000, are en route by Pan American cargo clipper to an experimental breeding farm set up by the Argentine government, where it is hoped they will become the nucleus of a prolific and industrious beaver colony.

For 55 years International Correspondence Schools has been saying to ambitious men and women:

"If you can't go to school... this school will come to you!"

SINCE 1891, when International Correspondence Schools introduced the home-study method of education, the door to opportunity has been wide open for ambitious men and women.

The founding of International Correspondence Schools marked the birth of a new era in education—a flexible program that made a wide range of subjects quickly and easily available for study, whenever and wherever desired.

The benefits of education—both general and technical—exemplified by I.C.S. Specialized Training, have enabled thousands upon thousands of students to throw off the shackles of poorly-paid toil... to emerge from the ruck of dull routine and mediocre accomplishment. In industry and business... in engineering and trade practice... these I.C.S. students have forged ahead to become leaders in their chosen fields.

More than five and a half million men and women have registered with I.C.S. for Specialized Training. Over 100,000 students are now actively studying under I.C.S. Faculties.

Today, I.C.S. is by far the largest educational institution in the world. And I.C.S. policy is the same today as it has always been—honest relations, effective and adequate instruction and sincere service to the individual student. I.C.S. instruction is truly personal—each student receives individual attention and assistance in the course for which he or she has enrolled.

I.C.S. endeavours to do more than it promises. Its methods are open. I.C.S. achievements are written in the lives of thousands of men and women who have created new and greater careers for themselves by sparetime study. Everywhere in the world today men and women testify to the service of these schools.

Public Ownership Carried Further in Germany Than U.K.

By John Dauphinee

LONDON, (CP) — The public-ownership policies of the Labor government are being carried farther in the British zone of Germany than in Britain itself.

Paradoxically this is the one place where socialist Britain and free-enterprise United States have reached agreement for economic unity.

Already the ownership and controls have been vested in the commander-in-chief in the British zone and Foreign Secretary Bevin informed the commons Tuesday that similar action is contemplated in the case of heavy chemicals and mechanical engineering.

"Our intention is that those industries should be owned and controlled in future by the public," said Mr. Bevin.

(The American occupation command in Wuertemberg-Baden announced Thursday conditional approval of a new constitution for that state which also includes a wide measure of socialization. Similar constitutions have been drawn up for Bavaria and Hesse in the United States zone.)

Britain's nationalization program for the United Kingdom itself does not mention chemicals, and engineering has been exempted specifically by Supply Minister Wilmot from the scope of the planned iron and steel nationalization program.

A Labor spokesman said Thursday that there is no indication that the government plans to take over these industries even if it is re-elected in 1950.

The spokesman admitted, however, that it was not beyond the realm of possibility that such action might be taken in Britain.

The situation here is vastly different from Germany where, using Mr. Bevin's words, these industries "were previously in the hands of magnates who were closely allied to the German military machine, who financed Hitler, and who in two wars were part and parcel of Germany's aggressive policy."

Homeless Italians Cause Disorders

ROME, (AP) — One recurrent word in Italian newspaper headlines these days is "senzatetto," which means literally, "those without roofs"—the homeless.

The word is seen in newspapers so often because the hundreds of thousands of people displaced by the war, bitter over delays in providing housing for them, are easily stirred to violence.

Bloody rioting in Rome Oct. 8, in the course of which a tide of destruction-bent demonstrators washed to the very door of Premier Alcide De Gasperi's office, began, said investigators for labor and the government alike, after a band of "senzatetto" from a camp in Rome's suburbs joined demonstrating public works employes.

All accounts agreed that the homeless formed the "hard crust" of the attack on the Viminale palace, seat of the government.

All over Italy these last few months the like has been true. The day is rare which does not bring news of an outbreak somewhere in the country.

How many Italians are shelterless is anyone's guess.

The public works ministry estimates that 3,450,000 persons lost their homes in the war which, it says, destroyed 1,145,000 rooms, heavily damaged 845,000 and lightly damaged 2,226,680.

Of the homeless, the official report says, 845,000 are "distressed"—sleeping outdoors, or living in conditions of severe hardship in camps, billets, semi-destroyed houses or caves.

U. K. Experts Like Canadian Bacon

BRANDON, Man., (CP)—There is no reason why Canada cannot compete successfully with Denmark in the British bacon market, Agriculture Minister Campbell of Manitoba told the Manitoba Swine Breeders' association here Thursday.

Reporting on a visit to Britain, Mr. Campbell said Canadian bacon lacked proper identification and consequently a lot of British people thought an improvement in quality was needed. However, United Kingdom experts were "very satisfied" with the high standards maintained during the war.

The minister urged steps be taken to identify Canada's bacon exports and to distinguish it from inferior brands of other countries.

British Papers Ban Nazi Death Photos

LONDON, (CP)—All of London's daily newspapers complied with a government request not to publish photographs of the dead Nazi war criminals at Nuernberg, released to the press Thursday.

"The criminals concerned are dead," said the Daily Telegraph, adding it felt publication of the pictures would add "nothing to the information, satisfaction or instruction of the public."

PARIS, (AP)—Only five of the 17 Paris morning papers published pictures Friday of the executed Nuernberg war criminals.

Others published notes from their editors reaffirming their hostility to pictures of that type and approving the attitude adopted by the British press.

French Port Lanes Cleared of Mines

PARIS, (Reuters) French minesweepers have destroyed more than 16,000 mines along the French Atlantic coast since the liberation and about 400,000 others have been located, Capt. Conge, commander of the French minesweeping flotilla announced Friday.

"Entrances to all Atlantic ports are now free of mines, although an enormous task which will require at least 10 years to complete, still lies ahead," he said.

CLARKE'S HABOR, N.S. (CP)—A portable electric power plant is being prepared for installation to serve Cape Sable Island homes and industries now suffering a forced blackout caused by a break in the cable from the mainland. Linemen examining the cable have found it cannot be replaced for at least eight months.

Say U. S. Soldier Shot German Girl

BERLIN, (AP) — The United States army provost marshal said Friday a german woman was killed Thursday night by an American soldier who fired a bullet at the lock of a friend's room in order to gain admission and get a cigarette, a preliminary report termed the shooting accidental.

"As the soldier fired," the police report said, "the door was opened and a german girl, Gertrude Schwarzloff of Berlin, emerged from the room. She was sho- and killed."

Definitions Coined For Red Dictionary

By Charles Nichols

LONDON.—Concise definitions for three common words in the Communist lexicon have been given the British people by their leaders.

From Prime Minister Attlee (speaking at Brighton).

Democracy: "If in any part of the world the Communist party, by no matter what means, is in power, that is democracy."

Fascism: "If anywhere the Communists fail, then, however fair the conditions, it is regarded as Fascism."

From opposition leader Churchill (in the commons).

Reactionary: "An armed Communist advances upon you. You react. Therefore, you are a reactionary."

7 Planes Search For Missing Craft

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, (AP)—Seven search planes flew above the tundra shores of Kotzebue sound Thursday hunting a six place Alaska Airlines mail plane missing since Monday with its pilot, Norman Weaver, second oldest pilot on the Seward peninsula.

A land party, meantime, had traversed 28 miles of wilderness, during a snowstorm and late Tuesday found the wreck of another Alaska Airlines plane, with its three occupants dead. They were Pilot William Henry Kelly and two passengers, Karl W. Heck, 39, and his nephew, Leeman Edgar Riddle.

Storms prevented the search party returning here with the bodies.

Alaska airlines officials said it was unlikely Pilot Weaver's plane picked up any passengers on its projected flight from Candle to Kotzebue. The entire search, by army and airline flyers, was directed from Nome.

Growers' Market Manitoba Scheme

OTTAWA, (CP)—Establishment in Winnipeg of a centrally-located growers' market with adjacent packing and cold storage facilities is recommended in a report issued jointly Friday by the Manitoba and dominion agriculture departments.

The report, based on a study of marketing Manitoba fruits and vegetables, also recommends establishment of provincial grading regulations for Manitoba-grown produce, a system of crop reporting, and the appointment of a provincial agricultural representative to advise growers in producing and marketing.

The report follows a request by a vegetable growers' organization in 1944 that the Manitoba agriculture department consider vegetable marketing as part of its post-war reconstruction program.

South Africa Plans To Start Rationing

CAPETOWN, (CP)—Food Director Dr. H. J. Van Eck of South Africa said Friday ration books have been printed in the union for a wide range of goods, including soap, sugar, butter and tea.

Shortages of such commodities have been attributed to black market activities, which Dr. Van Eck in turn attributes to panic buying and hoarding by wealthier people.

Dr. Van Eck denied reports rationing has not been put into effect because of lack of co-operation among government departments.

Asks Job Security To Help Recruiting

EDINBURGH, (CP)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery Saturday advocated a guarantee of future civilian employment for men who volunteer for peacetime service in the British army, as a means to boost enlistment, which he said is "not so good."

"We need some scheme by which they are guaranteed employment, either in some form of government work or in civil occupations," he said in an address in accepting an honorary degree from Edinburgh university.

"This guarantee would install confidence in a secure life and would result in many more recruits."

Police Plan Drive On Italian Slayers

ROME, (AP) — Federal police headquarters said Friday that 1,000 armor-equipped carabinieri have been dispatched to the Emilia region in the lower Po valley where press dispatches say scores of murders—mostly of small landowners—have gone unpunished.

Police here said the number of victims had been "exaggerated" in the press dispatches, but acknowledged that "fear among the population" had interfered seriously with efforts of the local gendarmerie to bring the murderers to justice.

Air-Carried Poisons Deadly; Still Impractical as Weapon

WASHINGTON, (NANA) — Air-carried poisons 1,000 times more deadly than the phosgene gas of the First Great War now are in the hands of the army's chemical warfare service.

They are the basis for rumors of a "biological weapon worse than the atomic bomb."

The present problem is to find adequate means of disseminating the poisons so a large percentage of their deadly effect can be applied to a target and cover a wide area. Progress toward this end, as well as the nature of the poisons themselves, naturally are military secrets of the first order.

Can't Spread Poison Yet

It is well known that the chemical warfare service now has the most virulent poison on earth—the bacterial poison found in spoiled foods which cause the highly fatal disease of botulism. One estimate is that an ounce of it would kill 180,000,000 people—if they could be reached with it. But there is no way at present of spreading it.

At the time the Normandy landings were being planned, there were some indications the Germans might try to spread a botulus infection. As a result, there was intensive work in this country to prepare a toxoid which would protect American troops. This was accomplished and thousands of doses of the toxoid were sent to England for use if the rumors proved true.

It was in the course of these researches that the pure toxin was isolated. It is of military value only as it sheds light on means of isolating and purifying other virulent toxins which can more easily be spread.

Possibility of Future

Such is the explanation of Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt, present commander of the chemical warfare service, of present prospects for a devastating biological war. It is quite a different method than that of spreading germs of some deadly epidemic disease, such as cholera or bubonic plague, the possibility of which lies farther in the future.

Dissemination of powerful toxins over a large area seems more of a possibility at present than dissemination of living bacteria or viruses, none of which can exist long without appropriate hosts.

Still, Gen. Waitt says, epidemic war—apart from the type of biological war now considered more of a possibility—must be considered as one of the fessibities of the future.

Cut Job Insurance, Continue Benefits

OTTAWA, (CP) — Persons earning more than $60 a week who are no longer included in the unemployment insurance plan will be eligible to receive benefits for a limited time, insurance officials said Thursday.

Under a recent amendment, persons earning more than $60 a week were excluded from the plan which previously applied to all workers on a daily or weekly pay basis. Those in this category, however, still will be eligible to receive benefits should they become unemployed during the next two years, providing they have made contributions for 180 days.

There also is a possibility the benefit period may be extended to four years.

Soviet Buoy Shows Arctic Sea Drift

LONDON, (ONA) — A piece of driftwood found by an Eskimo on the Greenland coast is shedding new light on the course of the Arctic drift. The driftwood, which the Eskimo picked up at the town of Julianhaab, yielded a glass tube containing a letter.

The wood turned out to be a special buoy dropped in 1940 during an Arctic expedition of the Soviet icebreaker Malygin in the Chukotsk Sea.

The buoy evidently had drifted the whole length of the Arctic coast across the Arctic sea to the Greenland sea in the course of five years.

See Bright Spots U. S. Labor Front

NEW YORK, (AP)— The threat of a shutdown of United States soft coal mines remained Friday but there were a few bright spots on the labor front.

One strike nearly six months old involving 900 workers at the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company plant at La Crosse, Wis., ended and there were indications of breaks in the country-wide maritime walkout, the work stoppage by Trans World airline pilots and in the A.F.L. jurisdictional dispute in the Hollywood movie studios.

End of the strike at the Allis-Chalmers plant at La Crosse left only two of the company's factories still strike-bound, in Milwaukee, the firm's largest, and Boston. The C.I.O. industrial union at La Crosse ratified a contract providing a 13½-cents-an-hour increase and other changes.

Man Settle Strike

Settlement on the Atlantic and gulf coasts of the strike of deck officers hinged upon acceptance of a new proposal made to ship operators by the Masters, Mates and Pilots union (A.F.L.). A spokesman at the negotiations here did not disclose the proposal but said its acceptance would settle the 25-day-old strike. Wages and preferential hiring were the chief issues.

Both unions also are on strike on the Pacific coast but negotiations are not being pressed until settlement of the east and gulf coast dispute.

In the five-day-old strike by 1,400 T.W.A. pilots, which has made idle about 15,000 company employes, company and officials of the Airline Pilots association (A.F.L.) resumed discussions in Washington before the National Mediation board. The pilots are demanding wage increases and revised working rules.

In Hollywood, a spokesman for the A.F.L. Screen Actors' guild said leaders of two rival A.F.L. groups promised to arbitrate their month-long dispute by telephone with members of the 15-man A.F.L. executive council in Chicago. The two unions have been at odds periodically for 18 months over which has jurisdiction in building film sets.

Abide by Decision

The spokesman said heads of the Conference of Studio Unions and the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes had agreed to abide by the council's decision.

In Washington, President Truman did not enter into the soft coal dispute, leaving Interior Secretary Krug to work out the problem of meeting with John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers (A.F.L. Nov. 1 to reopen wage negotiations. Mr. Lewis has warned Mr. Krug that failure to reopen the discussions will mean a strike of 400,000 soft coal miners.

In Washington, A.F.L. teamsters in 13 states filed notice of intention to strike Nov. 21 if a dispute with 21 trucking associations is not settled.

Records Show Neutral Swiss Supplied Much Aid to Nazis

By William McGaffin

Allied attempts to uncover hidden Allied attempts to uncover hidden Nazi assets and obtain the repatriation of Nazis in Switzerland has led influential Swiss to charge an intention to compromise this country's "traditional policy of neutrality."

Switzerland has been at peace for 131 years, ever since the congress of Vienna recognized their status of perpetual neutrality. But some of the things the Swiss did in the second Great War seem strange conduct indeed for a "neutral" country.

It is known the famous Oerlikon anti-aircraft factory, in Zurich's suburbs, supplied the German army with guns and ammunitions. Its owner, Herr Emil Georg Buehrle, a former German cavalry officer, became a naturalized Swiss citizen in 1937, just before the war. His mansion is hung with a collection of German looted paintings bought with war profits.

Another good friend of the Germans is Georg Perrenoud, who owns the Zenith watch factory. Perrenoud made fuses for Germany and induced other Swiss watchmakers to do likewise. He also supplied the Germans with guns and anti-aircraft equipment from the Dual arms factory, which he controlled.

Swiss manufacturers, in general, were a terrific asset to wartime Germany. They made their weight felt when the Swiss government granted Germany a total credit of 1,000,000,000 francs ($215,000,000), a large sum in Swiss economy. Eager for German orders, they high-pressured big Swiss newspapers to endorse credits and to suppress anti-German stories.

No favorable biographies of Winston Churchill or Franklin D. Roosevelt were allowed to be sold in that period. Charlie Chaplin's film, "The Great Dictator," a burlesque of Hitler, was banned here.

Allied correspondents were cold-shouldered and in certain cases shadowed. Sometimes their rooms were searched by efficient Swiss secret police, modeled on German lines.

Not until the tide of war had obviously turned against the Nazis did the Swiss officially warm up to correspondents. In one instance, they were ostentatiously taken on a tour of a Swiss watch factory and given free watches.

One American magazine recently told how the Swiss were prepared to blow up their railway tunnels if the Germans had abused their neutrality. But it is proved that while the Swiss did bar German transport troops and guns, Nazi scrap iron went to Italy through those tunnels for conversion into war material.

Moreover, when Italy was being knocked out, this process was reversed as dismantled factories were moved from northern Italy to Germany for arms for Germany and granted it many.

Swiss have argued that they made big credits as blackmail payments against invasion. But, documents found by American investigators in Germany and confirmed by Swiss admission, show that as early as 1943, Hitler was persuaded that Germany would be far better off with a "neutral" Switzerland which could serve as a source of supply and a cloak for the tranfer of funds to his agents in the western hemisphere.

Arms shipments to Germany are also defended on the grounds that the Swiss were ready to supply any and all belligerents. They cite the fact that Oerlikon sold guns to England and France until the French collapse in June 1940, whereafter the Germans took over the French contracts. "It is not our fault if the Allies could not get delivery because we were surrounded by Germans," Swiss say.

While the Swiss may have maintained a sort of token neutrality, it was very different from America's concept as expressed in its neutrality act of 1935, which forebade Americans to supply the Republicans in Spain. According to that concept, delivery of war materials definitely is not an neutral act, even if done to both sides.

Impartial residents who saw Switzerland through the war period say the Swiss public must be distinguished from manufacturers. While the Swiss generally have been anti-Nazi or at least not pro-Nazi, they say that the producers, motivated by greed, have perverted neutrality from an idealistic moral policy into a materialistic conception of "good business."

Federal Tax Talks Proceeding Slowly

By John Bird

OTTAWA. — Dominion-provincial tax agreement discussions are proceeding harmoniously enough, but they bid fair to be long drawn out as Manitoba officials who had hoped to have an agreement "in the bag" by Friday, have now renewed their reservations to remain until Tuesday next.

Main news Thursday was the arrival of Premier Jones of Prince Edward Island to discuss the tax agreement, in addition to Premier McNair of New Brunswick.

Consequence on the tax discussions was that Manitoba and the dominion had to thresh over old straw, for the benefit of the new comers.

Word here is that it won't be long before Premier MacDonald of Nova Scotia arrives to take up the tax agreement discussions. Premier Hart of British Columbia is due here in November. It is understood that Mr. Hart will suggest a limited agreement. That leaves only Quebec, Ontario and Alberta out in the cold.

Printers' Dispute Parley Fruitless

MONTREAL (CP)—Conferences between representatives of the Southam Publishing company and the International Typographical union, with a view toward settlement of matters in dispute, ended Thursday without an agreement being reached, it was learned reliably.

The conferences began here Wednesday. Philip S. Fisher and W. J. Watson represented the Southam company and Woodruff Randolph and Harry Finch the union.

It was understood Mr. Justice Richards of the Manitoba appeal court, who last Sept. 25 was named an industrial disputes inquiry commissioner, is returning to Winnipeg.

Mr. Justice Richards said he had no statement to make.

Fish Still Showing Atom Bomb Effects

SEATTLE, (AP)— Three months after the latest atom bomb exploded at Bikini lagoon, professors of the University of Washington school of fisheries are handling with rubber gloves dead fish taken from the waters of the area.

Between 5,000 and 6,000 fish, obtained from the lagoon and surrounding waters, have been received by the university's department of fisheries for study.

Lauren R. Donaldson, associate professor of fisheries, who will direct the research, won't say much about what has already been learned about the effect of the bombing on fish life. That is top secret, but he will admit there is plenty of radiation left in the barrels of fish carcasses stored in the laboratory.

Camp Commander Sentenced to Die

PRAGUE, (Reuters)— Henrich Jocckl, 47, commander of the Terezin concentration camp where Jews were forced to faint to the death with pitchforks, Friday was sentenced to be hanged.

A people's court found him guilty of murder, manslaughter and blackmail.

Joeckl was in charge of "little fortress Terezin," used as a special camp for Czech politicians. His plan to destroy the fortress and all its inmates in one great explosion was foiled by the speed of the Russian liberation and the timidity of his men, and he fled leaving witnesses and evidence behind.

Jail Gandhi's Son In Durban Riots

DURBAN, South Africa, (Reuter) — Manilal Gandhi, son of Mohandas K. Gandhi, was among 358 resisters sent to prison here Thursday for trespassing on Durban corporation land.

The group of resisters who demonstrated Wednesday night was the largest number arrested since the beginning of the resistance campaign in protest against the Asiatic land tenure and Indian representation act which restricts property holding rights in South Africa of Asiatics.

The demonstration was timed to coincide with the opening of the United Nations general assembly in New York.

Manilal Gandhi refused to pay his fine of £3 ($12) and went to prison for 30 days.

EDMONTON GRAIN

Street prices on Edmonton deliveries of grain were quoted by the National Grain Company Friday: Rye—2 C.W. 2.23½, 3 C.W. 2.18½, 4 C.W. 2.14, ergoty 1.87½. Oats—all grades 39½ plus 10-cent bonus. Barley—all grades 47¼ plus 15-cent bonus. Wheat—received on wheat board scale of 1.20 for top northern.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, (CP) — Rye futures prices continued to score broad advances on the Winnipeg grain exchange Friday, the October future recording the 10-cent gain permitted in one day's trading.

Buying was attributed to exporters' shipping accounts and while the only export sale announced was that of 300,000 bushels of wheat to Britain, other sales were believed to have been made.

October closed 10 cents up at 2.56½. Dec. nine cents higher at 2.43 and May ⅞ higher at 2.33¼ A asked. Cash rye 2.56½.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, (AP) — Fairly heavy offerings by eastern commission houses forced grain prices lower Friday.

Wheat finished 1¾ - 2¼ lower, Jan. 2.01; corn was off 2 to2½, oats declined ⅝ - 1¼ and barley dropped 2 to 2½.

Cash grain: wheat — No. 2 red 2.18 - 2.19; corn — new, No. 3 yellow 1.78¼; oats — No. 1 heavy mixed 89¼; rye — No. 2 grades 2.45 - 2.50 nominal; barley — malting 1.61 - 176 nominal.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO, (CP) — Industrials showed little net change and western oils were steady.

Cheaper golds were gainers on good volume. Among stronger western oils were Royalite and Homestead. Roxana and Dalhousie were down narrowly.

MONTREAL STOCKS

MONTREAL, (CP)—Prices were down on average but stronger in industrials were Dosco, Asbestos, Ford and M. Locomotive.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, (AP) — The list tried to rally at the start Friday but ran into offerings and prices slipped fractions to two or more points. There was a moderate comeback around mid-day.

Canadian issues generally were off fractionally at mid-day Hiram Walker and Distillers Seagram each lost ⅝ and Canadian Pacific ⅝. McIntyre gained ½.

Mothers Working; Children Problem

SOFIA, (ONA)—By far the majority of Bulgarian mothers today are at work outside their homes. About the only jobs they don't hold are those of locomotive engineer and coal miner but, it should be added, that omission it not due to any lack of applicants.

This mass employment of mothers, who work to eke out a slightly more endurable living for their families, has led to increasingly serious neglect of small children. The usually compulsory neglect by mothers has had deleterious effects upon the health and behavior of children of all ages, but those effects are especially grave in the instances of children between the ages of four and seven.

Thousands of these "part time" motherless children have been living in the streets of Sofia, in the daytime, and playing in the gutters. Their fights over potato peelings, for instance, are a microcosm of war, and the appearance of some battered toy sounds the tocsin for a full-scale street offensive by rival gangs of children scarcely out of swaddling clothes.

In an effort to relieve this situation, the Sofia government is establishing kindergarden schools. Attendance is not compulsory, but the move has been hailed with manifest relief by working mothers anxious to get their children off the streets and subjected to something more constructive than guttersnipe warfare.

New Zealand's oldest benefit society, the New Plymouth Friendly society, has just held its 105th and last annual meeting, the members deciding to liquidate.

School Teachers Continue Parley

Diversified educational topics were under discussion at the Friday morning session of the Edmonton city teachers' convention, being held in Garneau school. Following the pattern of the Thursday afternoon session, the convention was divided into elementary, intermediate and high school sections, with each section holding its own meeting.

IN THE elementary section, the session got underway with an address by D. T. Oviatt on the topic "Are we Getting the Most Out of the Activity Program?" Further addresses were given by Miss B. Newton, and H. T. Coutts.

Subjects of English, dramatics, science, latin, mathematics and social studies were discussed by the high scool group.

Members of the intermediate section heard A. P. Tingley, provincial supervisor of industrial arts, speak on "Impressions of the Latest Conception of Education." Further highlights of this program were discussions on social studies and science.

THE CONVENTION will conclude Friday afternoon, following a general meeting of the entire group.

TO HOLD REUNION

Members of the Canadian Corps Boys' Band will hold a reunion Wednesday, Oct. 30, at Victoria armory. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m.

Drug Charge

On a charge of being in possession of drugs, Marjorie Hayden and Mae Austin, were remanded to appear before the next sitting of supreme court when they appeared before Magistrate A. I. Millar, KC. in city police court Friday morning on a preliminary hearing. When apprehended by RCMP the accused are alleged to have been in possession of two bottles partly filled with a drug.

Bail was set at $1,000.

Says Dividends Paid by Education

"Can Canadians afford not to pay more for education?" was the challenge Dr. J.R. McIntosh of Saskatoon, left with his listeners when he addressed members of the teachers' inter-local convention of the 2nd Edmonton district in the Masonic Temple Thursday afternoon.

I SAW TODAY: Percy J. Gwynne discussing Canadian Legion matters at the Memorial Hall;

AND

John W. Barnett entering the Imperial Bank building; Duncan Innes on the South Side; Frank McLeavy walking south on 100 street; Hubert Esch at Jasper avenue and 104 street; Walker Blake entering the provincial building; W. Stanley Ross discussing matters of moment with a friend.

Plastics made from casein, a substance found in milk, are used for many coat and suit buttons.

HIS SUBJECT WAS "Does Education Pay?" In his address he went back into the history of Europe, England, France, Germany, the Balkans, and Russia, to prove that the more educated a people were, the more progressive they were, and the richer their country.

"Our greatest under-developed resources are the people of Canada and particularly our boys and girls. More than 50 per cent of them never get a secondary education; 50 per cent of those who do must attend inadequate one or two-room village schools; thousands who could make significant contributions are deprived of college training for want of money to pay for it. Worst of all, hundreds of thousands are under the care of young, inexperienced inadequately trained teachers who are themselves high school graduates or less," he said.

THE CANADIAN Education Association is advocating the educational budget be slightly more than doubled—raised from the 1941 level of 150 million dollars per annum to 350 million dollars per year.

Extra Allowance For Scholarships

The trustees of the Rhodes Scholarship Trust have announced a change in the additional allowances which will be made to Rhodes scholars. In addition to the normal 400 pounds per annum, Canadian scholars will receive during the next two academic years 1946-47, and 1947-48, a special allowance of 100 pounds per annum, making the total each year 500 pounds. At the end of the second year period this arrangement will be reviewed.

Lesson Is Seen In Dictatorships

Democratic countries might well take a lesson from dictatorship in their plan for citizenship education, according to Dr. J. R. McIntosh, professor of education, University of Saskatchewan, in his address before the convention banquet of the Edmonton city teachers in the Macdonald hotel, Thursday evening.

DR. McINTOSH deplored the fact that democratic countries have apparently not made a good job of educating youth for citizenship. He pointed out the necessity for making the young aware of the ideals and purposes of their country whether the teaching be democracy, barbarianism or dictatorship. If democracy is to succeed, its ideas and principles have to be learned, he said.

THE SPEAKER was introduced by E. C. Ansley, secretary-treasurer of the Alberta Teachers' Association, Thomas M. Blacklock, was chairman of the meeting.

Rural Teachers Elect Officers

Ottar Massing of Wetaskiwin was named president for the coming year at the Thursday afternoon sessions of the teacher's interlocal convention of the 2nd Edmonton district, being held in the Masonic Temple.

ELECTED to serve with him on the executive are Val Pailer, Thorsby, re-elected, and H. O. Lomres, Wetaskiwin, re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Highlighted by the election of officers, the convention also passed a number of resolutions relating to their association work and to teaching in general.

In resolutions to the provincial government teachers urged that because the pay now given retired teachers is considered inadequate in the light of rise in cost-of-living, that the provincial government increase the pensions for retired teachers by contributions equal in amount to the contributions made by the teachers themselves.

A GREATER system of exchange teachers between the provinces of Canada was urged in another resolution.

Library's Education Value Cited

Stressing the similarity of the teaching and library professions in the training of youthful minds, Hugh C. Gourlay, city librarian spoke to teachers of the 2nd Edmonton district at their convention banquet in the Masonic Temple Thursday evening. Subject of the address was the "Future of Education."

"One of the most important things you are doing in teaching," said Mr. Gourlay, "is the training of young people to be self-reliant. This trait will have a beneficial effect all through the pupil's life, from school and college and in business life."

"That is one of our aims, too," he said. "We try to make education as found in children's books an interesting thing, and one that will inspire children to seek further—to increase by their own efforts, their education or life."

"The library is one of the great educational factors of the present day and of the future," he said. "It is open to all ages and all walks of life, housewives, businessmen, advertising men, are all turning back to books to help them in their own professions."

"Thus not only children, but adults, too, find the library a valuable adjunct to their lives," he said.

"The real purpose of education is to make a happier, more worthwhile life for every individual it touches. In that our professions have common ends. We must work together for the realization of our aim." Mr. Gourlay said.

LCW Wants Sex Perverts Given Scientific Examination

Discussion on three resolutions took place among members of the Local Council of Women at the October meeting in the YWCA Thursday afternoon with 20 members attending.

The women endorsed a resolution presented by the Alberta Council of Child and Family Welfare petitioning the Minister of Justice to take steps to have sex perverts given scientific examination to prevent them from being repeaters.

ANOTHER resolution, asking for more severe sentences for sex perverts, was not passed by the members but will be re-drafted asking for medical attention for these persons as members feel they are mentally sick and should receive treatment as such rather than being given severe sentences by the courts.

A third resolution was passed asking the City Council to suspend the license of any public place such as restaurants and places of amusement which refused admission to persons on account of race, creed or color.

Delegate Urges Denazification

New York, Oct. 25-(AP)-A "world-wide denazification program," with emphasis on the Spanish Regime of Generalissimo Franco, was urged today by Mrs. Madeline Braun, vice-president of the French National Constitutional Assembly, and Mrs. Ana Rosa De Martinez Guerrero of Argentina.

The women spoke at a day-long session of the International Assembly of Women being held in conjunction with a meeting Friday and Saturday of the board of directors of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Today's assembly, attended by 1,500 concluded a 10-day forum held earlier at South Kortright, N.Y., by 200 women leaders from United Nations member countries.

Mrs. Braun, a member of the Communist party, talso urged the end of what she called Fascism in Greece and the "stamping out of Fascism which remains in Germany."

Mrs. Guerrero called on "all women to join together in the fight against Fascism, Nazism, Francoism, Nationalism and Isolationism."

Mrs. Angus MacInnis, a Canadian delegate, declared the role of government was "to do for us collectively what we are unable to do for ourselves individually."

Soap Powder Ashes Of Horse

KEYPORT, N.J., Oct. 25-(AP)—Three cartons of soap powder resting on a pantry shelf are like urns of ashes of her dead saddle-horse "Freckles" in the eyes of 16-year-old Angelina Gallopo.

Angelina became attached to the 21-year-old "Freckles" during the year and a half she rode the horse near the family home at Union Beach, papa Joseph Gallopo related today.

"Freckles" was injured and had to be destroyed, and the carcass was sent to a rendering plant in Kearny. As a friendly gesture, the plant sent the family the soap.

Although other horseflesh—and not her pet "Freckles"—had helped to make the soap, Angelina was heart-broken at sight of the cartons.

"Her mother's finger's are itching to get at that soap, but the kid sneaks into the pantry every once in a while to make sure it's still there," said Mr. Gallopo.

Mrs. E. Fowler Mother To 25

VANCOUVER, Oct. 25 -(CP)- A cheerful little English woman, Mrs. Edith Fowler, 58-year-old widow, is mother to the largest and oldest family in Vancouver.

She houses and feeds 25 old-age pensioners who pay her $25 a month each and in return get three meals a day, pleasant living surroundings and their washing and mending.

This unique boarding house is not a profit-maker, but Mrs. Fowler's philanthropy is possible because of an earlier philanthropy which made her financially independent.

She was left a Northern British Columbia gold mine some years ago by a man she had nursed through a long illness. Seven years ago she bought a house—and old rambling mansion—and renovated it.

Now she expects to sell her mine and with the money purchase and joining property and expand facilities for pensioners.

Mrs. Fowler today is looking ahead to Christmas — she was busy preparing a plum pudding. She remembers their birthdays with gifts of ties or handkerchiefs.

A visitor suggested that she must seem like a daughter to the old men.

"Daughter nothing," snorted Mrs. Fowler. "I'm Maw to all of them."

The youngest, Henry Mason, is 60, and the oldest, Nicklaus Gordon, 96.

385 Teachers Attend Red Deer Convention

RED DEER.—Three hundred and eighty-five teachers from the school divisions of Red Deer, Lacombe, Stettler, Ponoka and Rocky Mountain House concluded a two-day convention here Tuesday night. Convention opened Monday in the intermediate school. A banquet and dance was held in the Buffalo hotel.

Dr. H. E. Smith, of the faculty of education, University of Alberta spoke at the banquet. Joint sessions were held between the various sections during the two days, with each division having special sessions with their divisional superintendents, at which various problems were discussed.

Technical papers and demonstrations of teaching methods were the highlights of the convention. Speakers included D. M. Sullivan, inspector of high schools; Mrs. C. Higgins and J. W. Gilles, of the faculty of education, Edmonton; J. R. MacIntosh, of the University of Saskatchewan and H. Arnold of the National Film board.

Interesting was the demonstration of visual instruction. This method is to be tried out at the Central, Blackfalds, Cross roads, Clearview, Fairland, Antler Hill, Grahamston, Pleasant Valley and Little Red Deer schools starting on November 1.

One half-day a month is to be devoted to this new type of teaching, it was pointed out and films are on health, social studies, physical training and science. The teacher has the choice of which film will be used in the schools mentioned. Course will continue in series until the school year ends in June.

S. W. Hopper, Stettler, presided during the convention and other officials were Miss J. Cudek, Erskine, secretary; N. D. Muir, Stettler; Miss Mabel Murray, A. Allen, Red Deer, assistant secretaries; Miss Mary Moore, Red Deer acted as social convener.

The Alberta Teachers association also held their local meetings and elected the following officers at the convention:—Ponoka, president, P. Collins; secretary, G. D. Carr, both of Rimbey. Rocky Mountain House—president, M. C. Anderson, of Eckville; secretary, Mrs. A. Sterling, Benalto. Red Deer—president, D. C. Dandell; secretary, H. B. Rozen, both of Red Deer. Stettler—president, S. Camrose Legion Is in New Hall

CAMROSE. — Located in their new hall, the Camrose branch of the Canadian Legion has resumed meetings following an absence of three months. Legion members are in a former C.W.A.C. hut which was given them when the army camp was turned over to the town.

About 60 members attended the meeting. Discussion took place concerning the advisability of obtaining a wet canteen license for the new hall and the secretary was instructed to write the Alberta Liquor Control board and obtain details.

Members went on record as emphatically protesting the way in which War Assets equipment has been mishandled and also to protest the partial amnesty granted to deserters. Secretary was instructed to write the Alberta provincial command of the Legion asking that in future they protest such acts as these, which are so vital to the serviceman's interests.

Official opening of the Legion hall is to be just prior to November, when it is expected members from other branches and a noted speaker will be in attendance.

Club at Stettler Plans Playground

STETTLER. — Kinsmen Club playground, situated on a plot of land west of the Stettler curling house and surrounded by hedges and shady trees will be the centre of attraction for children when it is opened next summer.

Entrance is to be on the north side and will open to a walk leading to an attractive clump of ornamental shrubs in the centre of the grounds. The east side of the grounds will contain equipment chiefly for the tiny tots. A slide, swing, a teeter totter, small slide and a sandlot. In this area space will be provided for organized games or for open-air picnics. The west half of the grounds will contain equipment suitable for the older children up to 10 or 12 years. It will consist of an ordinary swing, an ocean wave, a merry go round, a large see saw, a horizontal ladder and a sandpit.

One of the chief attractions will be a cement wading pool, surrounded by shrubs and situated on the south end of the grounds. The pool will be 20 wide, and 40 feet long, and will have a cement walk all the way around.

The landscaping plan will be under the direction and supervision of Harold Banfield of Stettler. Mr. Banfield is president of the Stettler Horticultural society, and with his aid it is expected that these grounds will become one of the beauty spots of the town.

Parties Start Crafty Moves To Influence Redistribution

By R. K. Carnegie

OTTAWA, (CP)—Key men in the political parties are hard at work preparing for the redistribution of the federal constituencies of Canada which will be a major job in the parliamentary session opening next January.

The liberals have a strong committee of members of parliament from each province at work, it is understood, and the Progressive Conservatives have a somewhat similar setup. But who these members are and what progress they are making is regarded as high-level political strategy and a top secret.

The C.C.F., also is at work, it is said, and the three parties are massing data with which to enter the redistribution committee when it is set up shortly after parliament opens. The reason such great emphasis is placed on the rearrangement of constituency boundaries is the possibility of political advantage by putting a block of voters into one constituency or another.

Draft Bill Ready

So anxious is the government to get an early start on the work of the redistribution committee that the draft bill already has been prepared. Significant in the bill is a provision committing the government to adding the district of Mackenzie to the Yukon. This would take in Yellowknife, Eldorado, Aklavik and Norman. It had been suggested the entire Northwest Territories be added but the parties agreed taking in Keewatin and Franklin was unnecessary because so few voters live in them.

The bill itself will not be contentious. What the argument will be about is the schedule which the committee will add defining each constituency.

The constitution provides that a census be held every 10 years for all Canada and be followed by a redistribution. The census was held in 1941 but redistribution has been delayed because of the war.

Tactics Lose Importance

Old-time party war horses thought the skillful cutting up of a province, getting some along Liberal townships in this riding and Conservative townships in another riding often meant the difference between winning or losing an election. The party in power always had the whiphand in such a manipulation and if carried to extreme it was referred to as gerrymandering.

Election students today do not attach so much importance to gerrymandering. In fact the word has almost dropped out of use. The trouble is that so many people change their party allegiance these days that a riding cannot be made safe for any party by manipulating its boundaries.

Old ideas die hard, however, and when the redistribution committee gets going much of the ancient political heat doubtless will be in evidence. In the 1932 distribution, the Conservatives were in control but this time the Liberals will have the majority.

Change Whole axis

The entire basis of redistribution will be changed as the result of the amendment to the British North America act passed last summer by the British parliament at the request of Canada. Heretofore Quebec has always had 65 members and the other provinces the same ratio according to their populations. Thus the number of members changed, dependent on the growth of the rest of Canada as compared with Quebec. The present house has 245 members.

Under the new system the commons always will have 255 members. Prince Edward Island will have the four guaranteed her by the B.N.A. act although its population would not rate that number. Yukon and Mackenzie will have one.

To ascertain the representation for the remaining eight provinces, their total population was divided by 250 and the quotient was 45,578. This divided into the population of each province gave the following: Nova Scotia 13, New Brunswick 10, Quebec 73, Ontario 83, Manitoba 16, Saskatchewan 20, Alberta 17, British Columbia 18.

As compared with the present house, Quebec gains eight, British Columbia two, and Ontario and Nova Scotia one each. Saskatchewan and Manitoba each lose one. Alberta and New Brunswick are unchanged.

Portrait of President Truman Slashed

The hand of an official of the Smithsonian institution's national museum at Washington, points to the ten-inch slash, just discovered, on the face of President Truman's portrait by John Slavin. The painting is regarded by many as the finest likeness of the chief executive. There was no clue to the vandal and Artist Slavin expressed doubt as to whether the damage can be repaired.

Russ Ship Probes Arctic Passages

WASHINGTON. — The Russian icebreaker North Pole now is smashing its way along the northern edge of the world through the Kara, Chukotsk, Laptev and New Siberian seas in an exploration of the northern sea route past the arctic coast of Eurasia.

It plans to make the first effort to round Wrangel Island, just northeast of Alaska—which is perpetually icebound—as well as the New Siberian Islands first discovered by the American naval officer, De Long, late in the last century.

It is following the new method of Arctic navigation, further developed by the U. S. navy expedition headed by the icebreaker Northwind this summer, in which short-range planes will be sent ahead of the ship to explore leads through the ice and determine whether an apparent barrier is narrow enough to be attacked successfully by an icebreaker.

On board North Pole are 35 eminent Soviet scientists. The expedition left recently from Vladivostok, according to an announcement in the Soviet information bulletin. It is under the command of Igor Maksimov, veteran of seven previous Arctic expeditions.

"For the first time," says the announcement, "a ship will sail the northern sea routes from east to west at high latitudes. Throughout the voyage, the icebreaker will have to battle heavy ice packs in the distant northern sectors of the continental shelf. Provided conditions are favorable, the expedition will reach the continental slope sector and make careful study of this little known area.

"The depth is very changeable in in this sector, varying from less than 100 feet to an ocean depth of more than 6,000 feet. It is thought the area plays an important part in the formation of ice in the central sector of the Arctic ocean.

"It will make an attempt to survey the edges of the perennial ice fields of the Soviet Arctic region. If conditions permit, the expedition will explore the white spot in the center of the east Siberian sea and make an additional survey of the shallow waters north of Urankov Island in the Kara sea."

Seek Retirement Insurance Scheme

REGINA, (CP)—Rupert Ramsay, 47-year-old former professor of the University of Saskatchewan, was re-elected leader of Saskatchewan Progressive Conservatives at the biennial provincial convention here Thursday.

In two of 35 resolutions, the party went on record favoring payment to farmers of $1.35 cents for a bushel of wheat as the present parity price, and that "any subsidy necessary to keep the price of bread down should be borne by all the people of Canada and not by the farmer alone."

During two hours of debate on the resolutions the convention also resolved that the Prairie Farm Assistance act be changed to allow for awards on an individual basis and a boosting of award for crop failures to a maximum award of not less than $1,000.

Opposition to long term bi-lateral trade agreements as restrictive and favor of multi-lateral trade agreements was expressed.

Other resolutions passed include: that socialism and co-operatives were diametrically opposed; that salaries of scientists be raised to stop drainage to foreign countries; introduction of a dominion-wide contributory retirement insurance plan and increase of the basic pension to $30 a month; that income tax be based on a five-year period for those engaged in agriculture; that the provincial government increase its share in education to 50 percent of the cost (at present about 39 percent) without any increase in tax on real estate or business; that the system of larger school units be endorsed with minor changes; and that a provincial board of education be set up.

Tars Find Pounds Don't Make Cents

VANCOUVER, (CP)— A group of English merchant seamen arrived here Thursday and found that "pounds don't make cents."

The 107 sailors were paupers except in English pound notes, and didn't have a dime among them in Canadian funds. "Where can we change our money?" was the first question asked as they stepped off the trains. "Nowhere," was the dismal answer.

Canadian banks are not allowed to buy English paper pounds for dollars.

Declares Benefits Given to Nurses

REGINA, (CP)— Labor Minister Williams said Thursday that five improvements have been made in working conditions of student nurses in Saskatchewan despite recent exemption of student nurses from the provisions of the Minimum Wage act which provided for a minimum wage of $80 a month. The act came into effect July 23 this year.

Under an agreement made last week with the Saskatchewan Hospital association, more than 1,000 student nurses at the 10 schools of nursing in the province would receive the following benefits:

1. Abolition of enrolment fee which was $200 in some cases.
2. Remuneration from date of enrolment at $6 per month for the first year, $8 monthly for the second and $10 monthly for the third and final year. No remuneration had been given previously for the probationary period, usually six months. Meals and accommodation were provided.
3. Hospitals to supply and launder uniforms.
4. No deductions of pay for breakages.
5. Goal of a 48-hour week set for all schools, some of which have already reduced working hours.

Bomb Is Thrown Near Red Officers

HEREFORD, Germany, (Reuters) —The control commissions for Germany and for UNRRA Thursday confirmed Moscow reports that a bomb was thrown near three Russian officers while they were visiting a displaced persons camp at Blomberg, in the central part of the British zone, earlier this month. The statement said the incident is being investigated.

BERLIN, (AP) — Russian authorities asserted today in an official police report delivered to United States army investigators that the Russian military policeman who fatally shot an American civilian here Sunday was aiming at the American's jeep tires.

The Russian report said the American had disregarded orders from a Russian patrol to accompany them to Soviet headquarters.

D'Allaird's Opens New Store Here

Women's Apparel, Offices In Modernized Building

In line with the concerted move to fully modernize Edmonton's downtown business section, D'Allaird's Limited new women's apparel store and building, at 10012 Jasper ave., opens Saturday.

Operator of a chain of 20 ladies' wear stores across Canada, D'Allaird's has long been noted for the most modern in stores. Their new Edmonton building is the former Merrick building, completely renovated.

The D'Allaird's building is a three-storey structure. The ladies wear firm will occupy the spacious ground floor as store premises, while the two upper storeys are being equipped as up-to-date accommodations for various Edmonton business offices.

Planned along the lines of the American store of tomorrow, D'Allaird's is designed for the comfort of the customer with emphasis on eye appeal.

The result of designers' consultations with executives of modern New York stores, D'Allaird's objective was to transplant a spot of Fifth ave. onto Jasper ave. Through the architectural planning of Rule, Wynn and Rule, architects, and the constructional work of Bennett and White of Edmonton Ltd., contractors, the plan has succeeded.

Visual Front

Manager of the new store will be M. T. Wickett, for the past 15 years manager of D'Allaird's Edmonton store, formerly located at 10140 Jasper ave. Nucleus of his staff, enlarged to suit the larger and more modern store, will be his former staff of courteous and fully experienced saleswomen.

The 1,200-foot sales floor space from which this staff will offer the women of Edmonton the latest in clothing is plainly visible from Jasper ave., through a visthal front.

The new visual front includes armor plate glass doors and huge backless show windows. Pilkington Glass, Ltd., installed the glass work and mirrors.

The base of the building is finished in black granite, standing out in pleasing contrast against the white limestone. On the Jasper ave. face of the building, the name "D'Allaird's" appears in attractive, three-foot high green letters.

Blended Color Scheme

From the exterior the eye leads easily into the store's interior. There is scarcely a strip of wood to block one's view of the interior, which is lighted by a modern, semi-indirect fluorescent lighting system, giving well-distributed lighting to the sales floor and merchandise. Electrical installations were made by the Edmonton firm of Colin Allan.

Interior decoration features a blended color scheme, pleasant to the eye, and in neutral tones planned to display dresses, gowns and other wearing apparel to advantage. Keeler Painting and Decorating Co., did the decorating.

A combination of marbeleum and carpet in blended color suited to the rest of the interior covers the 1,200-foot floor space. Floor covering was supplied by the T. Eaton Co., Western Limited.

A profusion of mirrors, and well-lighted alcoves set in the fake walls add brightness to the layout. All lighting fixtures are completely hidden from view. Fixtures are done in a rubbed enamel finish.

Demonstrates Confidence

Designed by the architects with a view to complete comfort for the customer, the rear of the shop contains the fitting rooms and other installations necessary for service without delay.

A fireproof enclosed staircase, directly west of the store entrance on Jasper ave., leads to the upper suites of business offices, complete with most modern facilities.

Plumbing and heating facilities throughout the buildings were supplied and installed by Lockerbie and Hole, Ltd. Installation of awnings and such fixtures was done by the North West Tent and Awning Co.

In business in Edmonton for more than 20 years, D'Allaird's new store is about twice the size of the former store, located a few doors to the west. It will enable the firm, which designs and manufactures all its own fashion apparel in its own extensive Montreal headquarters, to serve the discriminating women of this city with an extended range of fashion merchandise.

The opening of such a building also demonstrates the confidence of D'Allaird's in the future of Edmonton.

Moves to 'Open Up' Alaska Strike Defence Restrictions

By Selden Menefee

WASHINGTON (ONA)—The department of the interior is waging a determined battle to open Alaska to civilian development. In addition to the fight against the inertia of the Ickes policy, which in fact did not only overcome the inertia of the Ickes policy, which actually discouraged large-scale settlement of the huge territory, but the claims of the military, who see Alaska as a strategic base of the utmost importance in case of war with Russia.

Since the end of the war nearly all United States soldiers have been withdrawn from the territory. But the trend may soon be reversed. Two army task forces of 1,500 men have been dispatched to Alaska in an experiment in Arctic warfare. According to one report, B-29's with atom crews have also been sent there. What the Russians think about this has not yet been revealed.

One of the army task forces will operate out of Fairbanks, under conditions of prolonged Arctic cold. The other will be stationed at Adak, the westernmost permanent base, where there are fog, rain, sleet, snow, and freakish storms. A third unit is stationed at Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, to test out winter operations in this country.

Army Controls Hamper

Meanwhile, Secretary of the Interior Krug is fighting an uphill battle to release army installations and reservations for civilian use. On his recent trip to Alaska he visited the town of Kodiak, and found that the principal dock was still under army control, although the army no longer needed it. Upon his return, Mr. Krug took steps to speed up the delivery of the dock as surplus property so the town could buy it.

The interior department also arranged for the Chilkoot barracks, the oldest army post in Alaska, to be taken over as surplus property by a group of veterans who were banded together as the Veterans' Alaska Co-operative Company. They paid $105,000 for the post, which is a complete and modern town, with sewers and electricity all installed. The vets intend to use it as a base for operating a steamship line, badly needed in the area.

But such concessions hardly scratch the surface. Most of Alaska is still closed to settlement. The war, navy, agriculture and interior departments have withdrawn 115,000,000 acres of the best land in Alaska. As a result, a veteran wishing to homestead can find few spots except in the interior or the far north.

Few Spots for Settlers

Most of Alaska's 34,000-mile coastline has been withdrawn from settlement. It is practically impossible to get good land along the inlets of southeastern Alaska or in the Cook Inlet lowlands, where the climate is mild, like that of western Washington. And if a settler finds good land along a river, he is faced with an outdated restriction requiring him to build his home at least a quarter-mile from his nearest neighbor. One veteran complained, "I just don't want to have to live like a hermit all during the long Alaska winter."

Secretary Krug told this reporter he hopes to do away with these restrictions, and open up a good deal of new land for settlement. There are nearly a million acres of good farm-land on the lowlands and plateaus of the Kenai Peninsula, near Seward. Cattle thrive there, and beef fetches twice the price it does in the U.S.

Much of the valley land in the south is also very good. The Matanuska colony has thrived in recent years. In one early part of this year, for example, the lettuce yield was 86 crates an acre—and lettuce sold for $3.50 a crate in the Alaska market.

Settle long Highway

Secretary Krug has great hopes for the Alaska tourist industry. He has already arranged for the land along the Alaska highway to be opened for settlement, and is now crusading for a second highway up the Pacific Coast through British Columbia, so that the summer tourists can make a triangular tour from the U.S. But he admits that until facilities for tourists are built on a much greater scale, few will undertake the long drive.

The interior department is doing everything in its power to revitalize the fishing industry. It operates an experimental laboratory in Ketchikan, which is showing the industry how to utilize waste products and to use freezing techniques. Valuable fish oil, fish meal, fertilizer and vitamins are being produced from once-wasted salmon heads and entrails.

Mr. Krug also has high hopes for the lumber industry, which could supply a fourth of United States newsprint requirements from southeastern Alaska alone. There are 85,000,000 acres of government-owned forest land.

Advocate Statehood

"But," says Secretary Krug, "all these plans for Alaska will go unrealized until she becomes a state and can have a voice in her own development. There should be no further delay in granting statehood to Alaska."

Alaskans voted for statehood in the recent referendum. With statehood, and the renewal of the interior department's attitude on opening Alaska's resources for development, Mr. Krug says he confidently expects Alaska's population (82,000 in an area twice the size of Texas) to double in the next two or three years.

He might have added—though he did not—that the chief danger to the development of Alaska is that the army may clamp on new restrictions as part of its Arctic warfare program.

Strike Is Averted By Wage Increase

REGINA, (CP) — A strike of approximately 180 woodworkers in five Saskatchewan plants set for Friday, was averted by the agreement of operators to award an immediate increase of 10 cents an hour in wages to the majority of employes, Canadian Congress of Labor officials announced Thursday.

Both the C. C. L. and the American Federation of Labor group, which represented employes of two Saskatoon plants, had demanded a 15-cents-an-hour boost. C.C.L.-organized plants affected are at Regina and Prince Albert.

NEW POLIO CASE

WINNIPEG, (CP)— A new case of poliomyelitis, in which a Winnipeg child was stricken, was reported to provincial health authorities Thursday. It was the third case in the province this month.

Assembly Likely Deal with Spain

NEW YORK, (AP) — The Spanish case, originally brought before the security council last April by Poland in a demand for a worldwide diplomatic break with the Franco regime, now lies dormant on the council's agenda.

Under the U. N. charter, the assembly may discuss the question but may not make recommendations on it while it is still before the council. But it appeared likely the council would drop the case when it is brought up in the assembly.

Dealing with other problems before the U.N., Trygve Lie, secretary-general reported:

On atomic energy controls: "I think we can say that there has been progress but it has been strictly limited and it has been slow. The problem is deeply involved and it clearly requires time to solve."

On trusteeships: Agreements have been submitted by France, Great Britain and Australia and others were being filed by New Zealand and Belgium for their League of nations mandates. This assures creation of the trusteeship council at this session, provided the draft agreements are approved.

On reconstruction of devastated areas of Europe: Mr. Lie strongly endorsed general principles laid down in the report of the temporary sub-commission which last summer made a comprehensive survey. At the recent session of the economic and social council, Russia opposed the key recommendations of the sub-commission which included a proposal for an economic commission to co-ordinate Europe's plans for recovery.

Intend Continue Sailors' Hostels

CALGARY, (CP) — Navy league hostels on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts which during six years of war accommodated several million merchant seamen will continue to be a "home away from home" for men of the sea as shipping is resumed in all countries of the world, David H. Gibson, C.B.E., of Toronto, national President of the Navy League of Canada, said here.

Russia Convinced Of Western Bloc

By Eddy Gilmore

MOSCOW, (AP)— Russia apparently is convinced that a western bloc exists whose main purpose is to enforce its will upon other countries of the world, and that any international organization without the veto would be aimed directly at the Soviet Union.

The impression is growing among Russians that an organized move is being started in the camp of their western Allies to eliminate the veto in the United Nations security council, and many individual Russians are talking about it.

This discussion has as its background what the Russians consider were departures by the United States and Britain from agreements made in meetings of the four-power foreign ministers. Russia also sees in the current situation with regard to Turkey and the Dardanelles a move on the part of Britain and the United States to abandon decisions made at the Potsdam conference.

17 Nations Talk Free World Trade

LONDON, (CP)—Trade experts of 17 countries, accustomed to hard trading under tariff negotiations, are furrowing their brows over more abstract declarations of principles which may guide international trade in the future.

They are delegates to the United Nations preparatory committee on trade and employment now making preliminary studies prior to the general international conference next year when some means of freeing trade and ensuring full employment perhaps will be decided.

The present group of delegates, now engrossed in private committee studies, are discussing how their countries would be affected by the application of principles such as the general reduction of tariffs, the placing of international trade on a multilateral instead of bilateral basis, giving equal treatment in commerce to all friendly states, recognizing that they must not "export their unemployment" to their neighbors, and applying equally fair and enforceable rules to the trade of all countries.

These principles were set forth by the United States which has taken a leading part in suggesting and organizing the trade discussions. Delegates said that while their committee talks are private, it could be said that the United States' proposals for promoting ever-growing world trade are proving to be the basis of most of the discussions. No country thus far has suggested a general substitute for American proposals but some may differ with details of the proposals.

The Canadian delegates are on all committees studying employment and economic activity; general commercial policy and restrictions, regulations and discriminations in trade; intergovernmental commodity arrangements; cartels and restrictive business practices; and administration.

It is understood that questions of whether Imperial preferences should be retained and how specific items such as Canadian wheat would be affected by international free-trade arrangements are not likely to be raised until the general international trade talks next year.

Few New Yorkers Excited by U.N.

NEW YORK, (CP) — New York's city fathers have been repeating warm invitations to the United Nations to make this city the permanent home of the organization but it would appear doubtful that they represent the feelings of the masses.

The people of New York this week seemed fairly indifferent to the fact that on the day the general assembly opened its sessions in the temporary peace temple on Flushing Meadows park they were in the presence of those who, presumably, hold the security of the world in their hands.

When the long motorcade carrying more than 500 delegates drove through the downtown and lower Manhattan streets on opening day there was scarcely a ripple of excitement among the thin lines of people along the sidewalks.

The traditional ticker tape shower that greets notables parading along lower Broadway was hardly noticeable.

There was a great throng at city hall for the civic reception but it was so undemonstrative that assembly president Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium commented on it.

"Do not lose confidence in us," he pleaded. "You must put your trust in us and we will do our best to bring you peace. Outside of the United Nations there is nothing that can assure peace so we must succeed."

The storm of protest that has raged over the choice of prospective permanent sites upstate in Westchester county, from those whose properties would be taken over, has rather set the pattern for local reaction to the distinguished visitors of the United Nations.

That has concentrated interest on the possibility that the temporary assembly quarters on Flushing Meadows, site of the world's fair in 1939-40 may be expanded into a multi-million dollar peace palace as a permanent site.

Except for Facts Story Is 'Scoop'

By John Bird

OTTAWA. — News Week magazine recently "scooped the world" on a most remarkable Canadian story.

Detailing the many trials of Russian Ambassador Novikoff, who recently complained of rude treatment from New York customs officials, the weekly recounted how Mr. Novikoff had suffered rudeness half a dozen times.

Said News Week: "For example, when the Negro butler admitted him for a formal call at the Canadian embassy (in Washington) he bounded up the stairs and protested to the then Ambassador Pearson that a visitor of his rank was entitled to have the door opened by a minister-councillor."

Ottawa officials declare the story is correct, except that:

1. Mr. Novikoff has never called at the Canadian embassy.

2. There is no Negro butler at the embassy.

3. Canada has no diplomatist of the rank of "minister-councillor."

4. Mr. Novikoff did not have bounded up the stairs because "Mike" Pearson's office was on the ground floor.

Cost to Determine Future Air Service

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. — Air transportation is a continuing development rather than a new industry; one cannot see today what tomorrow will bring in the way technical improvements, markets and costs; and in the final analysis, cost of service will dictate extent of service and the place of air transportation in the nations' economy, declared W. F. English, vice-president of Trans-Canada Airlines, at an air conference here.

Improved navigational devices developed in the war are coming into commercial use. They will improve performance considerably in that operations will be less dependent upon weather. However, they are costly to install and they necessitate longer and wider runways, Mr. English said.

20,000 Canadians Move to States

OTTAWA, (CP)— Canadian "white collar" workers are leading an exodus to the United States which has reached a rate in excess of 20,000 a year, it was disclosed Thursday in United States immigration statistics.

In the year ended June 30, 1946, visas to enter the United States for residence were issued to 18,280 native-born Canadians. Issuance of 1,682 visas for July indicated a step-up in the trend.

Included in the visas issued in July were 312 to professional and executive workers; 171 to clerical workers and 126 to skilled workers.

The $64 Question

'WHAT IS BETTER THAN CASH?'

Canada Savings Bonds are the answer! Think it over and you'll agree. They have all the advantages of ready money because you can turn them into cash at any time — with no delay — at any branch in Canada of any chartered bank. They are better than cash because they make money for you — 2¾% interest each year for 10 years. They provide a convenient way to save money — you can't dribble your savings away in small sums when they are invested in Canada Savings Bonds. And the money you put in Canada Savings Bonds can't be lost because your bonds will be registered in your name.

You can buy Canada Savings Bonds in convenient units of $50, $100, $500 and $1,000. You may buy up to $2,000 per person.

How to buy: You can buy them through any bank, authorized investment dealer, stock broker, trust or loan company — for cash or by the monthly Savings Plan. Where your employer offers a Payroll Savings Plan you can buy Canada Savings Bonds by regular deductions from your pay.

But please remember this point — These are "Serve Yourself" Bonds. This time there are fewer salesmen. They will not be able to call on everyone. So it's up to you to take advantage of this fine investment opportunity — without delay!

Why Grow Old?

Croquet is a quietly competitive game that can be played by people of all ages with a maximum of enjoyment. Actress Janis Carter's ball has been knocked out-of-bounds, but she still has a smile for the game.

BY JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I used to think of croquet as a dumb game, requiring little skill and practically no exercise. However, after being soundly beaten this summer by six-year-old children and seventy-year-old grandmothers I now console myself by deciding that it takes a lot of skill and strategy and gives you a workout.

WHILE WATCHING people play on vacation this summer I wondered why middle-aged women who have not exercised for years, and older women, do not indulge in in this game more seriously and regularly. It would get them outdoors, provide play and companionship and it is scaled to the exercise capacity of practically everyone.

Why don't grandmothers have croquet teams instead of sewing circles? I cannot understand why enterprising women do not organize games among their friends and pepper their social gatherings with real outdoors and fun. I think it is because all of us gradually settle into the corners assigned to us by public opinion, or by the opinions of our contemporaries.

UNCONSCIOUSLY we fall into line and become so typed that our imaginations are dulled and we live according to pattern rather than according to inclination. In fact we lose sight of our natural tastes amid such violent characterization. Look at any group of middle-aged or older women. You will find that they look about the same, act the same, do the same things, say the same things and many of them think the same way.

This attitude slips up on us unbeknown to us and sabotages the real enjoyment we could have from middle age on.

IF YOU WISH to have my leaflet No. 33 "Woman of Fifty," which gives makeup and exercise suggestions, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of The Edmonton Bulletin.

Minute Make-Ups

For that so dry skin, steam in your cream. Choose a lanolin type cream for the softening qualities. Once a week give yourself an extra special treatment. Cover your head with a towel and bend over a bowl of steaming hot water. Let the cream melt and just steam into the skin. Rinse with icy cold water.

Dorothy Dix Says —

Dear Dorothy Dix: We are a group of 17-year-old girls who are having an argument about love. I think that you can tell when you are truly in love, no matter what your age is, while some of the other girls think I am wrong.

DO YOU THINK that a girl of 17 can possibly tell whether she is really in love, or is she too young and inexperienced to know what love really is?

DISGUSTED GIRLS

ANSWER: The great majority of marriages are love marriages, yet one marriage out of five ends in divorce, which seems to prove that nobody yet has devised any fool-proof way of telling real love from the phony article, or of being able to analyze their own feelings and know if what they feel is a deathless passion or just a passing fancy.

• • •

Dear Miss Dix: When a boy comes in his car to take a girl on a date, should he go to her door and escort her to the car? The boys I know don't think this is necessary. They say they are going to sit in their cars in front of our houses and honk the horn twice, and if we don't answer it they will be through with us.

What should we do?

A TEEN-AGER

ANSWER: Well, social rules are not the Ten Commandments, but they are the next thing to them in regulating our conduct and making us act like ladies and gentlemen, and certainly no boy who had even a veneer of manners would think of such a thing as honking for a girl to come out to a car instead of going after her, and make her scramble in by herself without even a helping hand.

• • •

Dear Miss Dix: We are three discharged servicemen who would like your opinion on whether a girl should share expenses on a date, or whether the boy should pay everything, even if his income at the present time is very low and the girl's salary high.

WE ARE GOING to school and living on an income of $65 a month. The girls we go with earn from $50 to $60 a week—yet they still expect us to pay all the checks. Do you think this is correct, or do you think that women go with men these days only for what they can get?

HENRY, EDDIE AND JACK

ANSWER: In these days and under the conditions you mention, girls should not only go Dutch treat with the boys, but most of the time they should arrange to pay the whole bill. Every consideration of justice, generosity and gratitude should make a girl anxious to make things easy and comfortable for the returned soldier who is making deep sacrifices to prepare himself for a good job.

Your Baby And Mine

BY MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

It drives an energetic and speedy mother frantic when her 3 to 5 year old starts to dawdle. The dreamy way in which he stares at the clothes without making one move to put them on leads her to shriek at him to "hurry up." Then she is quite unable to explain why the child who has had ample time to dress goes into such a tantrum when she refuses to help him to hurry.

When children are first learning to dress themselves they can spend hours playing with their clothes and putting them on and off. Once they learn how to do this ably, it becomes just another chore to them and they lose interest in it.

In very few cases are children ever as speedy as parents. Adults get dressed in a hurry because tasks they must do urge them on. Not so the child under school age. For what should he hurry? Of course he ought to get downstairs for breakfast; but he isn't hungry. On the contrary, that toy he left on the bed last night exerts a tremendous fascination for him. He looks at it with entirely new eyes. Meanwhile, his mother screams at him to get dressed.

One has to take all those factors into consideration and still get the child dressed. If he manages this better when he is right under the mother's eyes, then bring him and his clothes downstairs. Or, if it is an apartment or one-storied home, then transfer the clothes—in the order in which they should be put on—to the kitchen where the mother is working.

If the child asks for help give it to him pleasantly. This won't make him eternally dependent on your help, for there will come a time when his own interests will spur him on.

Sometimes this dawdling is tied to resentment aroused by other children who get help because they are younger. The older child would, if he could, return to that desirable state of babyhood and not be denied help because he is a big boy.

Be conscious of these emotions and help him into a garment. Ease a shoe, button a button and do it graciously. That will do a lot to erase resentment and help him overcome dawdling.

Our leaflet No. 63 "Helping the Slow Child," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with this request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of The Edmonton Bulletin.

Believe It or Not! by RIPLEY

Elizabeth Woodward Says —

Dear Miss Woodward: "I can't get this girl off my mind. We went to the same school last year and we played together like all the other boys and girls—but I always had a secret love for her. Now I go to a different school and I miss her with terribly. We never had real dates together last year, so it would seem strange to go up to her and ask her to be my girl. But I want her to be my girl more than anything in the world. I can't forget her—not until I find out that she doesn't want me at all. She hasn't the foggiest idea that I care for her this way—what can I do?"

WHY NOT call her up and ask if you can't go ever to see her? Or make a date with her to go to the movies? Give her a chance to get re-acquainted with you. Go to see her often. Let her catch her breath over the fact that you're now paying some attention to her—before you plow into asking her to be your girl. You didn't date her at all last year—so start now. Let her see that you like her. If she likes you too—she'll automatically become your girl—you won't have to invite her. She'll prefer to be with you—but how on earth is she going to find out—if you stay off by yourself pining with love that she doesn't know anything about?

Dear Miss Woodward: "I've been going steady with a boy for about seven months and now he's going into the service for a few years. We've agreed that I should date other boys while he is gone. But I don't know whether I should wait any certain length of time after he goes before I start dating other boys. I think a lot of this boy and I wouldn't want either he or our friends to think that I couldn't wait for him to go—so I could go out with other fellows—and that's certainly not true! How long do you think I should wait?

I SHOULD THINK if you'd wait for two or three weeks before appearing in public with some other boy—you might satisfy yourself on the matter of "mourning" your departed boyfriend. Since you two have a definite understanding that you are not to sit at home and twiddle your thumbs while he's away—your going out with others is really no one else's concern. So you really need not wait a week to have other boys come over to see you. And if you want to break the crowd in gently to the idea that you're not going into seclusion—you could have a party or two. Since you're worried over appearances—and the opinion of the gang—work up gently to doing the town with other boys. Don't rush—take it by easy stages. Then your public appearance on the arm of some new lad—won't take your old friends by surprise!

ROBOTS ARE NOT A NEW INVENTION

As long ago as 200 years, a Frenchman built a robot, which was a mechanical girl, so constructed with intricate pinions and cams that it would sit at a table, draw pictures on a paper with pencil in hand, write poetry in French and English, and do other amazing feats. Destroyed by fire about the end of the eighteenth century, its inside mechanism which survived in Philadelphia.

About 300,000 houses were completely destroyed and 800,000 damaged in France during the last war.

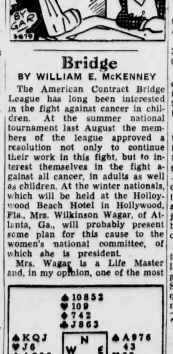
Dumb-Bells

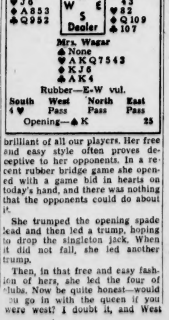


Bridge

BY WILLIAM E. McKENNEY

The American Contract Bridge League has long been interested in the fight against cancer in children. At the summer national tournament last August the members of the league approved a resolution not only to continue their work in this fight, but to interest themselves in the fight against all cancer, in adults as well as children. At the winter nationals, which will be held at the Hollywood Beach Hotel in Hollywood, Fla., Mrs. Wilkinson Wagar, of Atlanta, Ga., will probably present some plan for this cause to the women's national committee, of which she is president.

Mrs. Wagar is a Life Master and, in my opinion, one of the most brilliant of all our players. Her free and easy style often proves deceptive to her opponents. In a recent rubber bridge game she opened with a game bid in hearts on today's hand, and there was nothing that the opponents could do about it.



She trumped the opening spade lead and then led a trump, hoping to drop the singleton jack. When it did not fall, she led another trump.

Then, in that free and easy fashion of hers, she led the four of clubs. Now he quite honest—would you go in with the queen if you were west? I doubt it, and West did not: So Mrs. Wagar won with the jack in dummy, then played a small diamond. She finessed the jack. East won, and all Mrs. Wagar had to lose on the hand was another diamond.

Mrs. Wagar said she had thought that there was very little likelihood of dropping the queen by playing the ace and king of clubs. She figured that if West held the queen, in all probability he would not go up. She was right.

Better still, come down to the Garrison Theatre and see them in action, besides the program there's a grand line-up of movies and cartoons. The show starts at 10:00—Good Deeders come on stage at 11:00. If you don't already belong to the Club call around to see the Good Deed Secretary. Once you're a member you can enjoy all the privileges of the Club and that includes the opportunity to win a Gold Star Pin (the Club's highest honor) and a handsome 15-jewel wrist watch.
